Percy Williams Is Victor In Century Dash At Olympic

Youngster Defeats World's Greatest Sprinters in Brilliant Race; Carried From Track by His Wildly Enthusiastic Team-mates; Lord Burghley of Great Britain Wins 400-metre Hurdles and Dr. O'Callaghan of Ireland Captures Hammer-throw, Giving British Empire Clean Sweep To-day; Canadian Girls Win Three Places in 100-metre Finals

By Staff Correspondent of The Canadian Press

Amsterdam, July 30.—The three finals staged at the Olympic Stadium to-day went to representatives of the British Empire, and one of the best of these victories went to Canada.

Percy Williams, young sprinter from Vancouver, captured the 100 metres in 10 4-5 seconds, defeating a brilliant field.

Lord David Burghley, of Great Britain, famous hurdler, accounted for the 400-metre hurdles.

Dr. O'Callaghan, of Ireland, won the 16-pound hammer throw.

EDWARDS QUALIFIED

Phil Edwards, Hamilton Olympic Club, qualified for the 800-metre finals by running a close second to Lloyd Hahn, United States star, in a thrilling race, but two other Canadian 800-metre runners were eliminated, A. D. Little, Winnipeg, and A. W. Wilson, Montreal. John Fitzpatrick, of Hamilton, was in the 100-metres semi-final, but did not reach the finals.

THREE GIRLS QUALIFY

Canadian girls competed for the first time in any Olympiad, and of the four 100-metre runners, three qualified for the finals—Fanny Rosenfeld, Ethel Smith and Myrtle Cook, all of Toronto. Jane Bell, of Toronto, was eliminated.

In the main event, the 100 metres, Williams broke exceptionally fast, putting his chest out at the start and not withdrawing it until he had won. He gradually surged ahead of his competitors, who could not quite match the hot pace the young Canadian set.

Afterward Phil Edwards and B. Little, Canadian 800-metre runners, carried Williams on their shoulders to the dressing-room with the crowd cheering time and time again.

In token of the victory, Canada's flag was mounted on the Olympic pole, while the band played "The Maple Leaf." To the right of it the Union Jack, celebrating London's second-place effort, was raised, while the German flag was raised to the left for Tammar's achievement in taking third place. The Canadians in the stand sang "The Maple Leaf" in time with the band with vigor and feeling.

FIFTY ARE HURT IN TRAIN SMASH

Fire Extinguished After Collision on Elevated Line in New York City

New York, July 30.—Fifty persons were injured, three probably fatally, in a collision between two elevated trains at the West Seventy-second Street station here last night. Fire which broke out in the wreckage of the cars was quickly extinguished.

The collision occurred when a Ninth Avenue train ran into the rear of a train on the Sixth Avenue line at the station, where the two lines join.

AMBULANCES CALLED

Ambulances from several hospitals and police and fire department rescue squads were hurried to the scene.

Three of the most seriously injured were taken to a hospital, while ambulance surgeons established an emergency dressing station in a nearby store.

The Ninth Avenue train, which was rammed, had been stalled behind two other trains as a result of a small fire which had occurred in a train ahead of them.

BRITISH-FRENCH NAVY REDUCTION PLAN ANNOUNCED

London, July 30—Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary, announced in the House of Commons to-day that Great Britain had reached a compromise with France over naval disarmament which would be submitted to the other naval powers, and eventually to a disarmament conference.

TRAIN WRECK INJURES U.S. BAR MEMBERS

Thirty-seven Lawyers Hurt When Train Strikes Special Train in California

Sacramento, Cal., July 30.—Thirty-seven injured persons were in hospitals and hotels in Woodland, Arbuckle and Oakland, California, to-day as the result of a collision between a Southern Pacific train and the second section of the American Bar Association's special train from Seattle yesterday afternoon. Both trains were en route to San Francisco, the barristers just having ended their annual convention at the Puget Sound city.

Several of the injured are in a critical condition.

Many of those hurt were given emergency aid at the scene of the accident and were able to continue to Oakland, where they were taken to hospitals or hotels.

The accident occurred at Cortena, forty miles south of Davis, while the special, which had been running ten minutes ahead of the Cascade Limited train of the Southern Pacific, was stopped to enable minor engine trouble to be repaired The Cascade, rounding a curve at high speed, crashed into the standing train.

CAR TELESCOPED

The heavy Cascade engine telescoped the observation car of the special and both overturned. Five passengers in the observation car were injured.

The special was the third section of train No. 43 and was the second section of the Bar Association's special train.

POTENTATE WILL VISIT VICTORIA

Frank L. Jones of Houston, Texas, Due Here on Tour of West

In the course of his western tour, Frank L. Jones of Houston, Texas, Imperial Potentate of the Knights of the Mystic Shrine, is expected to reach this city on Wednesday from Jasper Park via Vancouver.

Mr. Jones decided to pay a visit to Canada after attending the National Conclave of the Knights Templar, of which he is past commander for Texas.

Mr. Jones and his party traveled by private car from Winnipeg accompanied by A. Wilcox, general superintendent of transportation, Canadian National Railways.

J. R. Cameron, assistant general manager of the Canadian National Railways, joined Mr. Jones at Jasper Park and is accompanying him to Vancouver, where he is due to-morrow.

At Vancouver they will be met by Hugh Caldwell, ex-mayor of Seattle,

GRANT HALL SEES C.P.R. EXPANSION WARRANTED

New Victoria-West Coast Steamer on Next Year, Vice-president Says

"With the period of wonderful growth which the Pacific Northwest has entered upon and the great increase here in tourist as well as general travel, the Canadian Pacific Railway is feeling the benefits of the extension of its B.C. Coast fleet, which extension was warranted and made necessary by this growth," said Grant Hall, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific, who is in Victoria to-day, on his annual tour of inspection.

"Next year another new steamship will be available for the West Coast of Vancouver Island sailing out of Victoria, and we expect that many tourists will desire to visit the beautiful and historic harbors on this coast.

"The volume of tourist traffic through the mountains this season is satisfactory. With the augmented train service and with the enlargement of Banff Springs Hotel the Canadian Pacific is in better position than ever before to handle the traffic with smoothness and dispatch.

"In recent years many of the larger international conventions have met in our Eastern Canadian cities and it would seem that Vancouver and Victoria with their many attractions, should draw a larger number of the gatherings of that kind. The only possible handicap is distance. But in view of the fact that the Pacific Coast cities south of the line are frequently selected for these conventions it would seem that we could do more here if we fully capitalized our ad-

LONG FLIGHT MADE BY RACING PIGEON

Prince Albert, Sask., July 30—A racing pigeon, believed to be one of those recently released at Havana, Cuba, in the Cuba-to-Washington race, arrived in this city last night and entered the loft of E. F. Webb. The bird bore the marking "AU24,-ERC, No. 60."

BROWN IS IN FIELD AS MAYOR

Alderman P. R. Brown Announces Candidature at Gyro Luncheon

Chairman of Council Finance Committee Says Civic Prosperity Assured

Alderman Percy R. Brown will seek the Mayoralty of Victoria at the municipal elections in December. Announcement of his candidature was made by Alderman Brown this afternoon at the weekly luncheon of the Gyro Club at the Chamber of Commerce.

Responding to a question by Harold Butteris, past president of the Victoria Gyro Club, Alderman Brown recalled that four years ago the Gyro Club had staged a notably successful "Get a Vote" campaign. The members had sponsored the candidature of many of the younger members of the council, and he believed the Gyros were entitled, by their record of interest in civic afafirs, to early knowledge of the situation.

PENDRAY NOT TO RUN

Alderman Brown stated that Mayor Carl Pendray would not again seek the mayoralty. Civic advances in the last four years had been remarkable in finance, restoration of public confidence had terminated land reversions and reverted properties are being sold by the city on a scale which compels confidence.

LONG SERVICE

As a member of the council in the four years which had witnessed these betterments, with four years of experience on the School Board, and as a native son of Victoria, Alderman Brown believed that he was warranted in offering his services as mayor.

A. W. Trevett, president, stated that a strong committee of the Gyro Club is now preparing to stage a vigorous "get a vote" campaign this year.

A report on the International Convention at Syracuse, N.Y., was presented by President Trevett, who represented the Victoria Gyro Club at the gathering.

WILLOW GROUSE CLOSED IN NEW GAME SEASONS

Blues Also May Be Given Full Protection Next Year

Open seasons for game birds all over British Columbia this year were announced at the Parliament Buildings to-day. The most important change from the regulations of last year is the closing of willow grouse to shooting all over the Province in order to protect this fine game bird from entire extinction. The Game Conservation Board is planning to keep this prohibition on willow grouse shooting in effect for a period of several years in an effort to restore the species. It may be necessary also to close blue grouse entirely to shooting next year, officials of the board stated, and it is hoped sportsmen will agree in urging this step. Blue grouse are in better condition than willows, but have been much repeited of late years.

TWO DISTRICTS

For game purposes the Province is divided again this year into two districts, the western district including all territory west of the summit of the Cascade Mountains and south of the electoral district of Atlin, and the

DUAL DEATH DUTIES HERE ELIMINATED

B.C. to Levy Succession Dues Only on Property Held Here

British Columbia people will no longer be subject to dual succession duties, under an important order-in-council passed by the Government and announced at the Parliament Buildings to-day.

By this order, when a man dies in British Columbia leaving a large estate in any other province, the British Columbia authorities will not collect succession duties on that property. Only the property which the deceased owned in British Columbia will be subject to a levy here.

This arrangement will apply to all provinces except Quebec, which has shown no disposition to grant British Columbia reciprocity in such an arrangement. While only Ontario so far has agreed not to tax estates of Ontario people held in British Columbia, the Provincial Government here is hopeful that the other provinces will shortly enter into such an arrangement.

ON UNIFORM BASIS

In this way all provinces but one would be on a uniform basis, and no Canadian would have to fear dual or even triple taxation on his estate. Quebec, however, may remain permanently outside the agreement, it is understood here, and on this account the new order-in-council does not include that province.

COVERS BIG ESTATES

The new regulations are designed to put succession duty taxation on a more satisfactory basis for everyone concerned. In particular, they will cover several outstanding cases when large estates would have been liable to taxation here and in other provinces.

This, however, is only the first step towards permanent satisfaction in the taxation of valuable estates. The problem is giving governments all over the world concern and is far from solution. In the United States it is proving a grave difficulty as between state governments. Here British Columbia is endeavoring to give a lead to other provinces in adjusting it.

Man in Small Boat Making Long Voyage

Seattle, July 30.—A. McQuillan of Vancouver has arrived at Norfolk, Va., on his voyage from Orillia, Ont., to his home city by way of New York City, the Panama Canal and Seattle in a small motor boat, the Miss Vancouver, according to word received to-day by the Seattle Chamber of Commerce.

The voyage from Orilla was begun July 2. Traveling by canals, lake Ontaria and the Hudson River to New York, the tiny craft put off from New York City last Wednesday for Atlantic City, Charleston, S.C., and other points south. Passing through the Panama Canal it is scheduled to swing up the Pacific Coast to Seattle.

Manitoba Police Hunting Five Bandits Who Took $25,000 From Bank Men

Daring Robbery of Messengers in Winnipeg Carried Out So Quickly People in Street Unable to Take Effective Action; Robbers, Armed With Sawed-off Shotguns and Revolvers, Escape in Stolen Automobile

Winnipeg, July 30.—Within the view of hundreds of citizens on their way to work, five bandits armed with sawed-off shotguns and revolvers held up two Canadian Bank of Commerce messengers here early to-day and escaped in an automobile with satchels believed to have contained $25,000 in cash. The messengers were carrying the money to the Provincial Savings Bank on Donald Street.

Police were quickly on the scene and outlets from the city were put under close guard. The police of other cities and towns of Manitoba and Saskatchewan and the United States side of the border were asked to be on the look-out for the robbers.

It was established by the police that the auto used by the bandits had been stolen last night and a fake Illinois license plate affixed.

Less than two blocks from their destination the two messengers, Kenneth Nicholson and Robert Jones, were halted by four of the bandits, who jumped from their sedan and ordered them to throw up their hands. Two of the holdup men put their guns against the backs of the messengers and threatened to shoot to kill if resisted. Another bandit seized the satchel containing the money, while the fourth maintained guard against outside intervention.

NO SHOTS FIRED

Without a shot being fired the bandits boarded their automobile and escaped down a side street.

Police squads were called to the scene and a few minutes later the entire city was being combed.

POOR DESCRIPTIONS

The raid was carried out with such speed and dispatch that eye-witnesses had very little chance to get a description of the robbers. The one who grabbed the money satchel out of the messenger's hand was described as middle-aged, stout of build and wearing horn-rimmed glasses. All were smartly dressed.

The bag in which the funds were being carried to the Provincial Savings Bank is known to have contained currency, mainly in bills of small denominations. The actual sum has not been divulged.

CAREFULLY PLANNED

Proof that the robbers had carefully planned their coup was shown in the manner in which the raid was staged. They intercepted the messengers at a vacant lot across which runs a large billboard. This afforded a protecting screen for the robbers. They also carried a pair of pliers, which were used to cut the leather strap around the messenger's waist, to which the satchel was chained.

GIANT PLANE STARTS HOPS TO MAINLAND

Passenger Service By B.C. Airways Limited Inaugurated To-day

Inaugurating the regular passenger service between Victoria, Seattle and Vancouver, the B.C. Airways Limited monoplane, piloted by Herold Walker, took off from the Lansdowne Road flying field at 8.15 o'clock this morning for Seattle. She carried a full load of passengers, in addition to freight and baggage.

The big plane kept to her schedule when she landed at Boeing Field, Seattle's new airport, at 9.15 o'clock and took on passengers for the return trip to Victoria and the subsequent run to Vancouver. Back here at 10.45 o'clock, she left again at 11 o'clock for Vancouver.

The Ford monoplane has not yet commenced to carry mail between this and mainland points. Her mail schedule is expected to start shortly.

WIDE ATTENTION

The Victoria passenger plane, the largest of its kind in service in Canada to-day, running on the first international passenger air schedule to be established on this continent, has attracted wide attention to the West. On her flight to Seattle several days ago, when a party of Victorians, including Mayor J. C. Pendray, traveled aboard for the dedication ceremonies at Boeing Field, thousands displayed interest in the tri-motored flying ship.

300 FAMILIES FLEE FLOOD

Mays, Kas., July 30—Three hundred families were forced to flee from their homes here early to-day when flood waters of the Big Creek inundated about one-third of the town, following heavy rains.

Only the second floors of many homes were above the flood and water was reported to be from three to six feet deep in the buildings of the Kansas State Teachers' College.

Strike on French Liner Failure

Harve, France, July 30.—With thirty-five sailors from the French navy replacing the striking oilers and stokers, the French Line steamship Rochambeau was on its way to New York to-day. Passengers boarded the vessel under heavy police guard. After the Rochambeau and two other ships had sailed, union officials intimated the strike had been unsuccessful and would be called off.

ALL COAST FIRES UNDER CONTROL.

Vancouver, July 30—No new outbreaks occurred in the Vancouver forest district, including Vancouver Island, during the week-end and existing fires are quiet and under control, forestry officials announced to-day.

As the situation continues to improve, fire fighting crews are being reduced.

CANADIAN DOLLAR AGAIN IS AT PREMIUM IN U.S.

New York, July 30.—Demand for money occasioned by the grain movement in Canada and withdrawal of Canadian funds from abroad strengthened the Canadian dollar to-day, sending it to a premium of 1-16 of one per cent here after it had been at a discount since May 9. On July 19, the Canadian dollar sold at a discount of 7-16 of one per cent.

Heavy expenditures by tourists in Canada at this season of the year and accumulation of Canadian funds by foreign countries to pay for grain usually combine to strengthen money rates in the Autumn.

Alvaro Obregon, President-elect.

THIRTY-ONE MOTORISTS ARE FINED

Two Hundred Drivers Face Charges Under Arterial Highway Rule

Enforcement of Victoria's new traffic regulations commenced in earnest to-day when thirty-one motorists appeared in the City Police Court to pay fines for failing to obey stop signs installed at approaches to arterial highways. The courtroom was crowded to capacity with motorists, besides a large number of spectators who displayed keen interest in the proceedings, the first of a series to be launched in the city shortly.

Magistrate Jay imposed a nominal fine of $5 on all the drivers. Only three pleaded not guilty, but His Honor, after hearing the evidence, stated they had violated the new by-law.

During the remainder of the week many motorists will appear to answer charges of violating the new regulations. Altogether about 200 motorists have received summonses.

RAIL MISHAP KILLS EIGHT

Tramps Believed Burned to Death Following Train Wreck in Wyoming

Guernsey, Wyoming, July 30.—Eight men are believed to have lost their lives in a fire of twenty-three gasoline, oil and coke cars which followed a wreck of a fast Burlington freight train five miles east of here Sunday morning. Unofficial estimates of the loss put it at $1,000,000. The men were seen by several persons to get into an empty car as the train was leaving.

RAIL MEN'S OPINION

The car in which they were riding was between a gasoline tank and a coke car, and railroad men who hurried to the wreck expressed the belief that if the men had not left they were burned to ashes, or possibly hurled into the Platte River.

It is believed the wreck was caused by loosening of the roadbed by cloudbursts Saturday. The cars tore up 2,000 feet of track, twenty-seven cars being piled up and twenty-three destroyed.

FREIGHT RATES CHANGED

Washington, July 30.—A readjustment of freight rates on oranges and grapefruit moving from Florida points to all consuming territory in the United States and Canada, which involves both increases and reductions was ordered to-day by the Interstate Commerce Commission, effective October 10 next.

Ennio Bolognini, fighter and musician

Not since Gene Tunney rose before the students of Yale University and confessed that he had read "The Winter's Tale" of William Shakespeare ten times, have the ancient traditions of the prize ring received such a knock-out punch as they took to-day with the discovery that a former sparring partner of Luis Angelo Firpo is one of the world's greatest cellists.

This fact was revealed here when Ennio Bolognini, solo cellist of the Seiberling Singers' radio orchestra, was interviewed in response to thousands of inquiries concerning the identity of the unannounced cellist whose playing had thrilled the millions who dial the Seiberling Hour every Tuesday evening.

Bolognini has been solo cellist of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra and has just been engaged by Toscanini to play with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra during the coming season. He has been acclaimed as one of the greatest cellists of the day.

But only now has it been learned that his priceless hands once battered the giant hulk of the "Wild Bull of the Pampas."

RELATED TO FIGHTER

Bolognini is a cousin of Firpo and also an Argentinian. The idol of the South American concert stage, he was unable to break away from his engagements there long enough to come to the United States until just prior to the historic battle at the Polo Grounds in 1923 when Firpo sent Jack Dempsey crashing into the ringside typewriters.

The blow which a moment later laid Firpo unconscious on the canvas, also left Bolognini destitute in a foreign country whose language he could not speak.

For a time Bolognini played in a New York "movie" orchestra, afterwards going on tour. It was then that he was discovered by Frank Black, orchestral director of the Seiberling Singers.

Later, when Black was commissioned by F. A. Seiberling, "Little Napoleon" of the rubber industry to bring together an orchestra of the world's finest musicians regardless of expense, he wired Bolognini and engaged him to play with the Seiberling orchestra.

HE'S A HANDSOME ATHLETE

Bolognini, besides being one of the world's greatest cellists, is one of the world's handsomest. He has been a "movie" actor. He is a crack pistol shot. He has taught young South Americans boxing, crew racing and fancy diving. In short, he is an all-round athlete.

And even Firpo could not knock him out. Two of his teeth were broken and his nose and two ribs smashed in the "Wild Bull's" training ring, but Bolognini was never knocked out.

"Have you ever thought of fighting again?" he was asked.

"I would like to," he replied a trifle sadly, "but I am not allowed because of the danger to my hands. I should not have fought before."

DOINGS IN LONDON

A WISE DECISION

Consistency is such a rare thing in public life that Mr. Whitley's decision to remain a democratic person calls for commendation and congratulation. He refused a viscountcy as a reward for seven years' service in the canopied chair of the House of Commons, and is content to take his well-earned pension of £4,000 a year. For a Speaker to refuse a viscountcy is to break with a custom which has held good for over 120 years. Presumably, Mr. Whitley, like other business men, has had heavy losses in industrial investments, and a viscountcy needs a good deal of capital in order adequately to endow it for his successors. The only reason which he gave for his refusal, however, is his desire to remain a commoner. He has always declared an aversion to the hereditary principle, and his feeling about it was sufficiently pronounced to lead him to stipulate when he became Speaker, seven years ago, that he should be free to decline the peerage at the end of his term in the chair. He belonged as a young politician to a group of Radicals whose ambition it was to attack and, if possible, to destroy the hereditary principle in the government of this country. Mr. Whitley remained in his official residence at the Palace of Westminster until this week, and he has taken a house in the West End. The Government have been pressing him to accept the chairmanship of the Royal Commission on Transport, but he is asking to be excused if the inquiry is to be immediate. He feels that his medical adviser is right in counseling him to take a year's rest before settling down to further work.

MILLIONS IN STAMPS

London is now invaded by great stamp collectors and dealers from all over the world, for not only is the Royal Philatelic Society holding its annual congress and a special exhibition of its treasures, but for the first time the International Stamp Dealers' Bourse has assembled in London. Millions of money are sunk in stamp collections. The dealers from all over Europe who are now busy in the London Bourse represent £5,000,000 of capital among them; but the great private collections are of a value beyond any market estimate. The rarest stamp in the world is still the one-cent British Guiana (1856), which Arthur Hind, a Fellow of the Royal Philatelic Society, bought at the Ferrari sale for £7,400. The King is one of the most ardent of Royal philatelists, and the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York share their father's interest in that hobby. King George's collection is entirely confined to the postal issues of Great Britain and the Dominions, and contains examples of the rare 1d. and 2d. "Post Office" Mauritius, now valued at £3,000 to £4,000 each. His Majesty also possesses a unique treasure in Rowland Hill's rough water-color sketches for the first 1d. and 2d. British postage stamps. King Alfonso of Spain is another royal collector, and it was on his behalf that the famous "King of Spain" reprints of the stamps of Portugal and her colonies were struck to complete his collection of these issues. Ex-King Manoel of Portugal, also a keen philatelist, presented a similar set to the Royal Philatelic Society. Several Cabinet Ministers are among those who make a hobby of stamp collecting. Lord Birkenhead is specially interested in war issues, and Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister (President of the Board of Trade) is also a keen collector.

THE "INVERTED LOOP"

Thus two pilots in charge of tiny De Haviland Moth machines—Flying Officers D. A. Boyle and R. L. R. Atcherly—gave several demonstrations of that very difficult manoeuvre known as the inverted loop, in which the pilot remains always on the outside of the loop, and, therefore, has to meet with peculiar force the downward "pull" of the earth. These two pilots and others also showed great daring in performing such movements as the half-roll and the slow-roll, the stalling turn and the rocket, the spin and the dive, many of them being done in what appeared to be dangerous proximity to the ground. As regards the formation flying, the most brilliant display during the day was that known as "threading the needle," in which some twenty aeroplanes swept round the sky like children playing the "mulberry bush" game, while others shot down from above and dropped through the middle of the circle or flew between the circling machines. A great thrill was also provided for the watchers in the press enclosure when the first flight of the No. 12 Bombing Squadron from Andover swooped down upon them in a demonstration of how low bombing attacks are delivered from modern aircraft. The machines roared over the heads of the observers with apparently only a few feet to spare, and many people tumbled in real alarm off the seats on which they were standing. The best feature of the air battle in the defence of London was the flaming descent of the observation balloon, while its dummy observer, familiarly known as "Flying Officer Sandbags," made a graceful descent by parachute.

Vancouver Man Struck By Train

Vancouver, July 30. — Struck by a train at the foot of Vernon Drive this morning while on his way to work at the Hastings sawmill, Patrick Forest was severely injued. He was removed to a hospital suffering from lacerations and scalp wounds.

Los Angeles, July 30.—Colonel Charles Lindbergh, accompanied in his plane by two young women, arrived at the East Side Air Field here to-day from Santa Barbara. One of the women, said to be a Miss Ull, took a taxicab to some unannounced destination. Col. Lindbergh, with the other fair passenger, again took the air, presumably for San Diego.

TARIFF SPLIT MENACES PARTY

British Cabinet Ministers Talk Against Each Other Regarding Duty Increases

London, July 30—Newspapers and politicians are discussing with keen interest a pronounced divergence in the views of members of the Cabinet and other persons prominent in the Conservative Party on the policy of protection of British industries. Whether the divergence is heading for a sensational split in the party, as the anti-government papers claim, is yet to be shown. There is no question, however, that the Ministers are talking one against the other.

Premier Stanley Baldwin recently emphatically turned down the appeal of some influential followers for the extension of the "safeguarding" of the iron and steel industry.

Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Home Secretary, in a speech on Saturday strongly advocated extension and asserted the question of giving protection must be settled between now and the next general election.

Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, on the same day made a striking declaration in favor of free trade.

Rt. Hon. L. C. M. S. Amery, Secretary for the Dominions, and some other members of the Cabinet support Sir William Joynson-Hicks. It is stated about 200 of the 500 Conservative members of Parliament are pressing for the safeguarding of iron and steel.

POTENTATE WILL VISIT VICTORIA

who is Imperial Captain of the Guard and next in line for the rank of Potentate.

After leaving here this week, Mr. Jones will visit Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, Spokane, Yellowstone Park, Butte, Aberdeen, Desmoines, Cedar Rapids, Sioux City, Marion, Rockford, Chicago and the Ohio Temples.

He will be in Houston on September 3. "I am very much taken with Western Canada," said Mr. Jones, while at Jasper Park.

"The people are so friendly and so much like my own folks that all I have to do is shut my eyes and I imagine I am in Texas. Jasper Park is a revelation to me and you can be sure I am going to talk about it on my tours. There will be a great many Shriners from all parts of the United States through Canada on their way to the convention in California."

PERCY WILLIAMS VICTOR IN CENTURY DASH AT OLYMPIC GAMES

TOOK EDGE OFF

It was noted that after the sensational Canadian victory, the edge seemed taken off the rest of the day's programme. Most were content to discuss Williams's feat. The British Empire groups in the field and on the stands were jubilant at the Empire carrying off the honors of the day. Scotsmen, Englishmen and Irishmen, in company with Australians and South Africans could be seen, arm in arm, looking for the Canadians to offer their congratulations.

AMERICANS CRUSHED

The 100-metre dash witnessed the worst setback United States sprinters ever received in Olympic competitions when they failed to get one of the three places. Two false starts preceded the race and the second, made by Wykoff, seemed to rattle the young American. Wykoff was fourth and McAllister, "the flying cop," sixth.

Jack London, a British negro, was a yard behind Williams, and George Lammes, of Germany, was third. Legg, South Africa, was fifth.

McAllister started poorly and was unable to close the gap as he had done previously, despite the fact that the time was slower than in either of the semi-finals, when the Olympic record was twice equalled.

The United States contestants gained small satisfaction by increasing their point lead. Totals showed the United States with 55 points, Britain 19; Finland 17; Sweden 16 and Canada and Ireland each 10.

Results of the heats in which the Canadians raced were as follows:

Preliminaries, 100 Metres

Fitzpatrick, Canada; won; Corts, Germany, second. Time, 11 seconds.

Williams, Canada, won; Vykoupil, Czechoslovakia, second. Time, 11 seconds.

Pina, Argentine, won; Adams, Canada, second. Time, 11 seconds.

London, Britain, won; Hester, Canada, second. Time, 10 4-5 seconds.

Semi-finals, 100 Metres

Williams, Canada, won; London, Britain, second. Time 10 3-5 seconds (equalling world's record).

Legg, South Africa, won; Fitzpatrick, Canada, second. Time, 10 4-5 seconds.

Bracey, United States, won; Lemmers, Germany, second. Time, 10 4-5 seconds.

BURGHLEY FIRST HOME

Amsterdam, July 30.—Lord David Burghley, famous Cambridge track star, scored Britain's first Olympic championship in the 1928 Olympiad, winning the final of the 400-metre hurdles to-day.

The victory of the young Englishman over the United States pair, Frank Guehel and Morgan Taylor, who finished second and third, was wildly greeted. Peterson, of Sweden, was fourth, and Learmouth, of Great Britain, fifth. The time was 53 2-5 seconds.

Lord Burghley, was off to a good start and led virtually all the way, although a staggering start made it difficult to gauge the positions until the runners entered the stretch. The United States pair were neck and neck with the Briton over the last hurdle, but Burghley had the most speed and won by two yards. The Olympic fans cheered vigorously through the stands.

WAS OUTRUN

Guehel, the strongest of the two Americans, appeared the victim of a poor start, but was outrun in the finishing dash after pulling even with the Briton. The United States group were stunned by their defeat, but joined heartily in the cheering.

Final, 400 metres, hurdles—Won by Lord Burghley, Great Britain; second, Frank J. Cuehel, United States; third, P. Morgan Taylor, United States; fourth, Peterson, Sweden; fifth, Livingstone-Learmouth, Great Britain; sixth, Facelli, Italy. Time 53 2-5 seconds.

IRISHMAN SURPRISES

Amsterdam, July 30 — A big upset came when Dr. P. O. Callaghan of Ireland won the Olympic hammer-throwing championship with a toss of 51.39 metres to-day. Skold of Sweden was second, and the Americans, Black, Gwynn and Conner, finished third, fifth and sixth, respectively.

Sixteen-pound hammer throw, finals—Won by Patrick O'Callaghan, Ireland, distance 51.39 metres (168 feet 7½ inches); second, Oshian Skold, Sweden, 51.29 metres (168 feet 3½ inches); third, Edmund Black, United States, 49.03 metres (160 feet 10¼ inches); fourth, A. Poggilo, Italy, 48.37 metres (158 feet 8½ inches); fifth, Donald W. Gwynn, United States, 47.15 metres (154 8½ inches); sixth, Frank Conners, United States, 46.65 metres (153 feet 5 inches).

LOWE AND PELTZER BEATEN

Amsterdam, July 30—The first of three 800-metre semi-final heats was won by Earl A. Fuller of the United States in a close finish with Douglas Lowe of England, defending champion. Dr. Peltzer, German star, was eliminated. Fuller produced a strong finish, breaking the tape in 1 minute 55 3-5 seconds.

Peltzer, rushing to the front on the back stretch of the first lap, set the pace until the last 300 metres when Lowe took command. The German star wilted, tried hard but finished fifth.

The second 800-metre semi-final was won by Lehn of Sweden with Ray D. Watson, United States, second, and Englehardt, Germany, third. B. Little, Winnipeg, was fifth, and Ralph Starr, Britain, sixth. Time, 1 minute 55 3-5 seconds.

Phil Edwards of Canada finished second to Lloyd Hahn, United States, in the third semi-final. Martin of France was third. The time was 1.52 3-5, the best of the three heats.

Hahn beat Edwards by a yard and a half in a driving finish with Martin, the French holder of the world's record, another yard behind.

Results of the semi-finals, 800 metres (three to qualify for finals):

First trial won by Earl A. Fuller, United States; second, Douglas Gordon Lowe, Great Britain; third, Keller, France; fourth, Bars, Hungary; fifth, Peltzer, Germany; sixth, Sidler, Czechoslovakia. Time, 1.55 3-5.

Second trial won by Lehn, Sweden; second, Ray D. Watson, United States; third Edelghart, Germany; fourth, B. Little, Canada; fifth, Ralph S. Starr, Great Britain; sixth, Cominooti, Italy; seventh, Dengra, Argentina. Time, 1.55¾.

Third trial won by Lloyd Hahn, United States; second, Phil Edwards, Canada; third, Seraphin Martin, France; fourth, Paul Martin, Switzerland; fifth, John F. Sittig, United States; sixth, Muller, Germany. Time, 1.52 3-5.

Amsterdam, July 30—The United States fencing team tied Argentina in the quarter finals 8-8 non-bouts, but lost on points 55-62 and later defeated Holland 12-4.

Can Profits Be Made?

The figures of the Eagle Rock machine, operating out of our Victoria Aerodrome on flying instruction, sight-seeing and aerial photography supply the answer.

Cost per Flying Hour, including depreciation on buildings, insurance, etc.	$20.22
Revenue per Flying Hour	$33.27
Profit on cost of operation	$13.05

64.5 Per Cent.

The Ford Trimotor is estimated to cost and produce as follows:

Cost per Flying Hour, including 100% depreciation p.a. on 3 motors, insurance and overhead	$52.75
Revenue per Flying Hour, based on half passenger loads, 50 lbs. excess baggage per trip at 20c per lb. and 1-100 freight capacity	$96.06
Profit	$43.30

Or $54,560.00 in Six Months

When it is considered that capacity loads for the same period would pay $720,000.00, the estimated profits are obviously extremely conservative.

WELL DONE, BRITISH COLUMBIA!

NEWSPAPERS IN HALF A HUNDRED countries to-day will tell their readers that Percy Williams, a school boy from British Columbia, has crowned himself King of Sprinters by winning the 100-metre classic from a brilliant field of Olympic runners at Amsterdam. He used just 10 4-5 seconds to cover the distance, one-fifth of a second slower than the record, although in the preliminary heats he equalled the 10 3-5 mark set by Lippincott of the United States in 1912 and accomplished by Abrahams of Great Britain in 1924. His feat is considered all the more outstanding, however, by reason of the fact that the track is a new one and not as speedy as it might have been.

Percy Williams is a Vancouver boy who first attracted attention by his display at an intercollegiate meet in Seattle some time ago; but it was hardly to be supposed that one so young and inexperienced would startle the running world in such a spectacular fashion. Feats like that which he accomplished to-day usually are the reward of many years of steady training and the experience which it brings. Success to him, however, has come early and Canada as a whole, as well as Vancouver and British Columbia in particular, salutes him and extends to him the heartiest of congratulations. Incidentally, by the way the Canadians have started, the contestants from the land of the Maple Leaf are going to acquit themselves well.

THE NEW DIPLOMACY

SURPRISE MINGLED WITH FEIGNED or genuine alarm has been occasioned in many world capitals by the announcement that the United States has signed a treaty giving China complete control over her tariff rates. It had been expected that any move of this kind would have been conducted in co-operation with other powers.

The world is getting a number of surprises these days. It was Mr. Kellogg who framed the simple document which fifteen nations have approved in the hope that war may be eliminated as an instrument of national policy. It caused some head shaking. There was nothing involved about it. The plain man could understand it. Then governments grew enthusiastic about it and the formal treaty will be signed next month. Is there anything extraordinary about the course which Washington now has taken to put the United States on a proper diplomatic footing with new China? We shall be told that there is no stable government in China which can speak for the people as a whole. That may be true; but the foreign powers with interests in China, with extra-territorial rights and special concessions, must realize that the old relationship can not continue, that a demonstration of good faith on their part will assist the country to reach her objective. The old order has passed. The Nationalist movement was destined to change much and it is nothing short of marvelous that such a complete revolution has been carried out with so little bloodshed and so little general disturbance.

It will be recalled that when Sir Austen Chamberlain laid down British policy towards China in his memorable pronouncement of more than eighteen months ago he declared emphatically that as soon as China could make up her mind to install a government that would be representative of the people as a whole, Great Britain would be only too willing to commence negotiations looking to a complete reorganization of Anglo-Chinese relations. Apparently the United States considers the time opportune to put her case right without waiting for an international conference to decide on common action. Time will tell whether the Washington Government has acted prematurely or not.

There is this to be said for the method in which Mr. Kellogg approaches foreign policy. He has set a new style in diplomatic interchange. It is obvious with regard to China, moreover, that he prefers his country to set an example rather than trust the somewhat cumbersome method of an international conference. It is to be hoped that this manifestation of good faith towards China will be met by the Chinese with frankness and honesty, and that other nations with similar interests and obligations will make good their promises as speedily as possible.

It is essential that these nations with interests in China should study the whole situation from the broadest possible standpoint. Their course should be to do what is best for China, to assist her liberally, for it must be accepted that China is destined to become just as jealous of her prerogatives as any other nation and just as self-sufficient from the point of view of government. This is as certain as the processes of the sun.

In its dealings with the Orient, moreover, the Occident must look far into the future. In a hundred years China will be a very powerful and thoroughly efficient nation. Her people will remember with gratitude such assistance as may have been given to them by the peoples of other nations—or they may take their revenge for wrongs under which their ancestors smarted. And whether we like it or not, we must not forget that the people of China and Japan will constitute a solid Oriental bloc should a clash of color ever come. In the meantime, therefore, the European powers and the people of this continent should shape their policies so as to insure the most cordial relations between the Occident and the Orient in the future.

No longer will it do to say that the foreigner has rights in China and that these rights should be protected at all costs. The men who are directing the China of to-day are men of intelligence and they recognize the moral effect, in their own and in the interests of the world, of fair dealing. But the basis of that understanding obviously must be a recognition on the part of the foreigner that the time has arrived for China to be mistress in her own house.

AVIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE

CANADIAN AVIATION, THE MONTHLY journal of the Aviation League of Canada, has introduced the subject of life insurance and its relationship to aerial transportation risks. In view of the growing popularity of this mode of travel, more especially now that Victoria is firmly on the air map of this continent, we reproduce a part of its comments:

It is evident that the executives of all of the insurance companies are giving their serious attention to this problem in an effort to establish rules that will be fair to all concerned. No concerted action by all of the insurance companies involved has been taken, however, and the result is that a tremendous diversity of opinion as to the steps to be taken now exists in the mind of the individual executive.

It will be in the good interests of policyholders and insurance companies alike for the executives of insurance companies to get together and thoroughly thrash out the problems involved, and arrive at some understanding which will eliminate the variety of opinion which is now leaving policyholders and prospective holders very much in the dark as to what participation in aviation will do to their rights and the standing of their policies.

Canadian Aviation wishes to point out to the men who guide the distinies of the insurance companies in Canada that transportation by air in approved types of machines, piloted by licensed commercial pilots, is a method of travel very nearly approaching the ideal from a safety standpoint.

During 1927 British air transport lines' machines traveled 873,000 miles and carried a total of 20,344 passengers and for the third successive year had no accidents involving death or injury to any passenger. During 1926 Deutsch Lufthansa Company machines flew 3,816,130 miles and transported 56,268 passengers without a single fatality.

It seems unnecessary to make safety comparisons with other modes of transport, but we cannot refrain from mentioning that 25,000 persons in the United States last year lost their lives in motor accidents.

No penalty whatsoever should attach to any person using a properly regulated commercial air liner. It is the safest form of transportation.

With safety devices now available, such as the Handley Page slotted wing, practically all of the risk involved in learning to fly is eliminated. Pilots flying machines equipped with safety devices of this character should not be penalized.

Comparisons of fatalities in the air and on the ground would seem to furnish a convincing argument in favor of reasonable treatment of policy-holders who choose the more modern form of transportation.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

GOVERNOR-GENERAL OR VICEROY?

Le Devoir (Ind.)

Not so long ago the Governor was called the Viceroy. M. Bourassa has reminded us of this. Why not return to this title? It is much more consistent with the facts, since the Governor has no other functions in Canada to perform than those of representing the King and acting in his place. He acts for the King and is therefore a Viceroy. And if he is, why not give him the title, which is more accurate than that of Governor, as he has not governed for many years now.

MEANING OF TITINA

By Bruce Catton

For some obscure reason it did us a great deal of good to read that Titina, the bright-eyed little dog that Gen. Umberto Nobile has taken with him on his aerial excursion to the North Pole, has survived the crash of his dirigible and is awaiting rescue, with her master, on a drifting ice floe in the Arctic.

The aviator who circled over the stranded party and dropped supplies reports that Titina was in the best of health. Unworried by her plight, she scampered about the ice, yip-yapping and chasing the speeding shadow of the aeroplane as it slid over the snow drifts.

And, as we said, for some reason we're mighty glad to hear it. There is something extremely appealing about the thought of that little dog riding clear across the top of the world in an airship, surviving the perils after an adventure such as few men have ever had. Titina has been so unconscious of what was happening; to her, undoubtedly, the whole thing has just been a new kind of outing—a bit unusual, perhaps, but nothing to get excited about.

Titina, however, is not so much different than the rest of us, after all. We'd realize the gravity of the situation if we were wrecked on an Arctic ice floe; but in our daily life at home we utterly fail, for the most part, to see where we are going or to appreciate the significance of our life-long voyage through the world.

No more than that frisky little dog knew what her ride to the Pole was all about do we grasp the real purport of our lives. It seems to us that we are here quite comprehensibly, and our obvious duty is to work, marry, raise children and live as comfortably and decently as we may; but beyond that we are befuddled. The tremendous implications of the fact that we are here at all; the illimitable possibilities of mankind's never-ending voyage upward from savagery to civilization; these things never bother our minds.

We always underestimate life. We do not realize that it is an everlasting, flame-girt mystery. We fail to see that humanity's slow progress up from ignorance, barbarity and superstition to freedom, intelligence and idealism is the most magnificent, awe-inspiring spectacle in the universe. The thing is as much outside our comprehension as Nobile's flight to the North Pole was outside the comprehesion of his canine mascot.

Some day we will have better vision. Then we will do away with wars, which blast the miracle of life out of millions of young men; with poverty, which cramps immortal souls in strait-jackets of want and disease; with hatred, which poisons hearts that were meant for brotherhood. And then we shall begin really to live.

DOUBLE AND REDOUBLE

When your partner doubles informatorily opponents' no trump or suit bid of one, you must make a declaration. To remain silent, no matter how weak your hand may be, is seldom justifiable. The weaker your hand, the greater the necessity of making a declaration. Your partner may at times place you in an uncomfortable position but that is not your fault. The responsibility of making an unwarranted double is upon your partner. Place your trust in your partner and bid.

When your partner makes an informatory double, you should respond giving preference in the following order:

1—The longest and strongest of either major containing any four or more cards.

2—Any major containing four cards in preference to a stronger minor.

3—The longest and strongest minor.

Applying the foregoing principles, assume that your partner doubles opponents' bid, and you hold each of the following hands. Your procedure should then be as follows:

1—Spades—J X X X, hearts—X X X, diamonds—X X X, clubs—X X X. One spade.

2—Spades—X X, hearts—K X X X, diamonds—X X, clubs—A K Q X X. One heart.

3—Spades—Q X X X, hearts—K J X X X, diamonds—X X, clubs—X X. One heart.

4—Spades—A J X, hearts—K X X, diamonds—A Q X, clubs—J X X X. No trump.

5—Spades—X X X, hearts—X X, diamonds—K J X X X, clubs—X X X. No trump.

6—Spades—K X X, hearts—X X, diamonds—X X X X, clubs—J X X X. Two clubs. Never bid a three card suit.

Glen Lake

Glen Lake, July 28.—Mrs. Geo. McMillan of Vancouver, Mrs. J. Rae and Mrs. Harvey Harrison of Victoria were recent guests of Mrs. Jack Trace at Glendale Cabin.

A delightful bridge party was given by Mrs. Jack Trace Saturday evening, the living room being artistic with gladiolus and other Summer flowers. In addition to Mrs. Trace's house guests there were present Mrs. L. F. Hutchinson of Glen Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mee of Victoria and Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Morrow of Luxton.

Mrs. L. F. Hutchinson of "Glen Haven" recently entertained Mrs. Chas. Hutchinson and Mrs. E. Pomeroy of Victoria.

Miss Pearl McIlmoyl of Victoria is the guest of her young friends, Masters Harold and Buddy Trace.

Mrs. W. M. C. Moore has returned from a delightful holiday in Seattle and other points in Washington.

Visitors to Rocky Point for the week-end are the Misses Elaine and Eva Moore of "Glen Mohr" Lodge.

Mrs. G. H. Bissell, "Busy Bee," is entertaining her sister Mrs. A. G. Greenfield and Master Gerald Greenfield of Tacoma, Wash.

Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Tait, Miss Sheila Tait and Master Bobs Tait are at their Summer cottage for the holidays.

JOTS FROM GEOGRAPHY

DIAMOND HEAD, overlooking Waikiki Beach at Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands, is one of the best known heights in the Orient. Diamond Head is no less famed for its beauty than the faultless beach below. Thousands of tourists from all points of the world congregate here for the winter season.

FILM EXPLODES IN JAIL ROOM

Two Convicts at Houston, Texas, Killed; Four Are Near Death

Houston, Texas, July 30.—Four convicts of the Blue Ridge State Prison Farm near here were at the point of death to-day, burned almost beyond recognition as a result of a fire which broke out when a lighted match dropped into a container of motion picture films during a weekly convict show Saturday night. Two men were burned to death and seventeen received serious burns.

The convict dining-room was turned into wildest confusion when the explosion occurred and the room was enveloped in flames. Guards struggled to enter the only door, which the prisoners stormed to escape.

COULD NOT HELP

Twenty-three convicts sitting between the exploded film and the doorway were wedged into a fighting mass of confusion at the door that hindered its unlocking. Meanwhile thirty-three other white prisoners and several Mexican trusties had been driven to the opposite side of the room, where they were forced to stay, powerless to help their shrieking companions.

Guards with drawn revolvers stood outside the battered door to prevent a wholesale escape, while the burning convicts rolled in the dirt and gravel.

The flames, which threatened a dormitory nearby in which 180 Mexican convicts were quartered, caused a near mutiny until a bucket brigade brought the fire under control in the dining-room.

THE AIR PAGEANT

Well over 100,000 spectators attended the ninth annual Royal Air Force display given at Hendon by 2,000 airmen. The gathering included the King and Queen, the Duke of York, Sir Ofori Atta, Mr. Baldwin, Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, and several Ambassadors and ruling Princes of India. From the average spectator's standpoint the pageant has become almost too popular an event. This year the crowd was so large as to create serious congestion on the roads and railways serving the Aerodrome. When the programme was ending thousands of would-be spectators were still endeavoring to approach the flying ground, while after the display it was possible to progress at the best only at the rate of two or three inches every five minutes, and hundreds of people were jammed immovably in the press for hours. A good many women fainted under the strain, both at this point and in the crowded Underground Railway trains. Yet it is not surprising that the display should attract vast numbers of spectators, for it is a thrilling and stirring event. The latest display showed once again that our airmen are as efficient at their own work as are our sailors and soldiers at theirs—which is high praise indeed. Pride of place should be given to the technical skill revealed by many of the pilots engaged in formation flying and in aerobatics. Watching these remarkable evolutions, one was again led to marvel that accidents ever occur in the Royal Air Force. It appeared that British airmen and British machines can defy the law of gravitation with impunity.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TO-DAY

The Victoria Daily Times, July 30, 1903

Ottawa, July 30.—Sir Wilfred Laurier announced this afternoon the policy of the Government for the construction of a national transcontinental railway.

Victorians will be gratified to learn that the Dominion Government intends carrying out much-needed improvements in the Inner Harbor in the immediate future.

Victoria and vicinity—Weather forecast: Moderate to fresh westerly winds, fair to-day and to-morrow, with not much change in temperature.

There were twenty boats out fishing in the Straits off the entrance of the harbor at an early hour this morning.

The Trades and Labor Council is arranging an excursion to Vancouver on Labor Day.

Last evening at Beacon Hill Park, a baseball game was played between the B.C. Paint Works and the Albion Works teams. The match was most exciting, and both teams claimed the victory.

Last evening a meeting of the Victoria Fish and Games Club was held, commencing at 8 o'clock, at the Victoria Tourist Association rooms.

Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, accompanied by Lady Tupper, and family, are in the city.

A Successful Realtor Puts It This Way---

"The old days are gone when whole families lived out their days in one neighborhood, buying or renting new places occasionally, but never very far from the old one. Folks come to me from all parts of the city now. I don't know them, and they don't know me.

"That's one reason why I use Times 'Want Ads.' They break the ice—give folks advance confidence in me, and give me confidence in them. When people see my ad day after day they know I am in business to stay."

For real estate sales always use the Times "Want Ads."

It is not difficult to own a home. Many very desirable homes can be purchased on a comparatively small down payment. Terms may be arranged that are nearly as convenient as a monthly rental, and it is much more pleasant to put aside a payment on your own home than to pay rent, because you know you are making an investment on which there is a good return.

"Shop" in The Times Real Estate Ads in the Want Ad column for the home you want. You will find any number at the right price, some as low as $500 down, in just the location you desire—then go out Sunday with your family. Figure it out for yourself what the rent you pay, at present-day interest, will amount to in a few years.

MEMORIAL SERVICE TO EDITH CAVELL

Fourth Annual Ceremony Held at Jasper in Honor of Noble Nurse

Jasper, Alta., July 30. — Far away from the old city of Norwich where she lived as a child, far away from the war and from Brussels, where she worked and where she died, in the midst of the Rocky Mountains of Canada, Nurse Edith Cavell was honored yesterday afternoon. The citizens of the town of Jasper and the guests at Jasper Park Lodge held their fourth annual memorial service at the foot of the noble mountain peak, which stands a monument to her deeds. Around the flagstaff, which was planted on the moraine, running down from the Angel Glacier, they gathered; behind them the towering forms of Mount Cavell, snow-cloaked and ice girt, and the harsh Mount Sorrow, below them the wide valley, the green lake and the river, and about them the heavy sky, the chaplain of the park, Rev. H. A. Edwards, who instituted the service and his white surpliced choir, came in procession over the gravel ridge, and the simple ceremony began with the singing of "Rock of Ages."

His Excellency the Governor-General, who was present, accompanied by Lady Willingdon; N. H. Knight, superintendent of the park; His Honor T. A. Burrows, Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, Mrs. Burrows and other guests at the lodge, read the Twenty-third Psalm. Mr. Edwards then offered prayer, after which the congregation joined in singing "Nearer My God to Thee," led by J. L. Snaps and the choir. As Sergeant Paton of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police slowly lowered the flag the bugler played the Last Post, and not another sound was heard except the rush of the stream hurrying down into the valely.

A shower of raindrops urged Mr. Edwards to eliminate his address, and the last words of "God Save the King" had scarcely been sung when a flash of lightning sprang out of the sky over Mount Cavell, followed by a thunder clap.

It seemed part of the service.

Dons Male Attire To Secure Drink In Beer Parlor

Winnipeg, July 30.—Performing before North Dakota crowds at the Hamilton Fair was warm work for one actress.

To slake a growing and urgent thirst she robed in mannish garb, affected the actions of the male, perched a cigarette between her lips and sauntered into a Gretna, Man., beer parlor just across the border, accompanied by two men.

As she quaffed the foaming ale, her voice proclaiming its excellence, gave her way.

The parlor proprietor fathomed the disguise and summoned a squad of provincial and town police. He demanded her ejection.

Although she and her escorts were liable under the Liquor Control Act, they were warned and ordered back where less alcoholic beverages slake the legal thirst.

MARYE AND "MOM" Their Letters

Dear Mom:

Well, darling, I'm coming home. So get out all those marvellous jams and jellies you've been fixing, and prepare for a clean-up. And let's have hot bread for every meal.

And don't worry, I'm not leaving my husband. After a few weeks of the most terrible agony on my part, during which time I suffered all the pangs that a silly, jealous, miserable woman can suffer when she thinks somebody else is getting her man, all is rosy.

And I honestly believe that I did penance for all the foolish things I've done, and all the suffering I have heaped upon my long-suffering husband in our hectic period of married life.

In order to tell you all about our glorious reconciliation, I shall have to tell you my little secret—and I might as well inform you here and now that you are about to become a grandmother.

And if baby hands don't do for my character what you have promised, and if they don't give me that valuable perspective on life and that swell sense of values I've never had, then at least I've silenced you on your best argument.

Things with Alan and I went rather badly, and as I told you, I became the biggest and best weeper in this part of the country. One evening at a dance down here at the hotel, I was looking my most charming in my white georgette and pearls, and Alan was just starting to dance with that Helen person, whom I hope never to see, when I just went mid-Victorian, and pulled a faint that would have made any dime novel heroine rage with jealousy.

I came to with Alan and a doctor bending over me. The doctor, besides informing me that I was to have a son and heir, said that I was quite run down and nervous, and that I needed a complete rest.

After he had left, I told Alan that child or no child, I was leaving him flat, and that so far as I was concerned he and Helen could plan on being out of the picture as soon as I decently could.

Alan nearly dropped dead. It seems that Helen had told him a lot of stuff about Mr. Shelton and I being madly in love, and he had been perfectly wretched, and had been paying attention to Helen, only because he was so miserable and so sure he had lost me.

Well, the long and the short of it is that we patched up our difficulties and swore never to lie or deceive each other again.

And I'm coming home for a visit with you while Alan goes on a business trip to Chicago, and then we are going on a nice vacation together for a month. No more Summer hotels for me.

Lovingly,

MARYE.

Ss. Princess Patricia will take an excursion to Vancouver on August 2.

An interesting wedding was solemnized at the Metropolitan Church, Friday afternoon, when Miss Mary Isabel Wardle, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Wardle, 1234 Richardson Street, was married to Mr. James Wood, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wood, Oak Bay. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Sipprell. The girl friends of the bride decorated the church with masses of Summer flowers. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked very charming in her wedding gown of ivory chiffon taffeta, arranged simply with a tight bodice and full skirt, trimmed with silver lace, caught at the waist with silver ribbons and orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, the gift of the groom. Her embroidered tulle veil was worn cap fashion and finished with a bandeau of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of sweetheart roses and sweet peas. The bridesmaid was Miss Marie Stubbs, cousin of the bride. She wore a three-tone mauve taffeta gown, and carried a bouquet of roses and mauve sweet peas. Little Vera Wood, niece of the bridegroom, looked very dainty in a dress of pale blue caught on the shoulder with ribbon rosettes. She carried a basket of pink sweet peas. Mr. Tom Wellburn carried out the duties of best man. Mr. Percy Pitts and Mr. Colin Wood were the ushers. The bridal party left the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march. The bride and groom received their guests under a large floral bell at the home of the bride's parents. Refreshments were served in the garden. The table was prettily decorated with arches of flowers and ferns centred with a three-tier wedding cake. The bride's mother wore a handsome gown of navy blue georgette over floral silk, with hat to match. The happy couple left for a motor trip up the Island, the bride traveling in a pale blue French hand-made dress, white coat and close-fitting white hat. Mr. and Mrs. James Wood will reside at Ocean Falls, B.C.

STRAWBERRY VALE W.I. PICNIC

Arrangements have been made by the Strawberry Vale Women's Institute to hold their annual basket picnic on Thursday, August 2. The party will start from the corner of Wellington and Wilkinson Roads at 10 o'clock, and proceed by the red bus to Cordova Bay, and will leave for home in the evening at 8 o'clock.

Several races have been planned for the children and also the ladies, and an enjoyable time is assured all who attend this event. A very cordial invitation is extended to all ladies of the district. Tickets may be obtained for a nominal sum from Mrs. Geo. Austin, Glyn Farm, or from members of the institute.

Lady Douglas Chapter.—A special meeting of the Lady Douglas Chapter I.O.D.E. will be held on Thursday afternoon at the headquarters, Union Bank Building, to make plans for Heather Day. All members are urged to attend.

MOTHER OF LOST SCIENTIST HEARS ZAPPI'S STORY

Mme. Malmgren Satisfied With Account of Son's Death in Arctic

Stockholm, Sweden, July 30.—Dr. Finn Malmgren's mother is satisfied with the report of her son's death brought her by Capt. Filippo Zappi, his companion on the fatal dash over the ice that added his name to the list of those lost in the Italia disaster, it became known yesterday.

Capt. Zappi, en route to Rome, left his rescued comrades yesterday to call on Madame Malmgren and to present to her the meteorologist's compass, that, at the latter's behest, he took from the dying scientist on the Spitzbergen ice pack.

Mme. Malmgren's son-in-law quoted her as saying after Capt. Zappi's visit:

"The object of Capt. Zappi's call has been attained. I feel perfectly calm. I believe absolutely that Capt. Zappi is telling me the truth."

PAINED BY RUMORS

The conversation between the rescued Italian and Mme. Malmgren was carried on in English with the son-in-law as interpreter. In a statement yesterday he quoted Capt. Zappi as saying:

"Dr. Malmgren and I were the best of friends. We were like brothers. I have been very much pained by what has been said about me but I have a clear conscience before God. Dr. Malmgren kept no notes, at least after the disaster."

Here Mme. Malmgren interrupted Capt. Zappi's story with the exclamation:

"I understand . . . It was not his habit.'

"Dr. Malmgren was not in good form when we set out and soon remarked that his strength was going to fail him. One day, I believe it was June 12, the doctor asked me, as the only service that I could do him, to dig a trench in the snow and take the compass which was a presentation for his work with the Amundsen expedition of 1922-1923."

At this point the captain handed the compass to Mme. Malmgren, saying:

"You know him; all we could was to obey; he was like that."

TROUSERS EXPLAINED

Capt. Zappi, speaking of statements made by the Russian aviator Chukhnovsky who discovered Zappi and Capt. Alberto Mariano on the ice, that a third figure was nearby, told Mme. Malmgren that what the aviator saw must have been a pair of leather breeches which had been thrown away.

The son-in-law, like Mme. Malmgren, declared himself fully satisfied with the captain's story. He said that he knew the doctor's strength of character and was convinced that his last moments were as Zappi related.

He declared:

"Capt. Zappi is a perfect gentleman whose story gives a clear idea of what really happened."

Zappi, who was accompanied by the Italian Consul-General in his call on Mme. Malmgren yesterday, rejoined his party, which includes Gen. Umberto Nobile, leader of the Italia expedition at Copenhagen.

FAMOUS FILM "DAWN" WILL BE SHOWN IN CITY

When the booking of a picture warrants editors placing the news of it on the front page, it is proof positive that the picture is an outstanding event.

And when the film referred to is a British production, it is another incident warranting Britons in taking a pride in British work.

When the celebrated film "Dawn" passed various provincial censor boards in Canada, the news in several instances was published on the front pages of Canadian newspapers.

"Dawn," the world's most talked-of film, around which bitter controversies have raged, is the story of Edith Cavell, heroic British nurse, who faced a German firing squad in the early days of the war.

It is to be shown in British Columbia, Victoria, the capital city, to have the first showing.

The film was passed without deletion by the British Columbia censor board.

It will be shown in the Coliseum in road-show manner—that is to say, there will be two screenings daily, starting 2.30 and 8.30. Suitable music and effects will be supplied.

The play-dates will be announced shortly.

Founder of Camp Fire Girls Dead

New York, July 30—Mrs. Charlotte V. Gulick, sixty, founder of the Camp Fire Girls, died Saturday at her Summer home at South Casco, Maine.

The Camp Fire Girls is an American organization corresponding somewhat to the Girl Guide movement.

BURGLARS GOT ONLY THREE EGGS FROM VANDERBILT HOME

Paris, July 30—Burglars who gained entrance to the home of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt some time last Friday night apparently stole only three eggs, which they swallowed raw. A survey revealed that the burglars failed to crack a safe containing a fortune in jewels, although they broke glass cases and took miniatures from frames which they dropped in flight.

Mrs. Vanderbilt is on a cruising trip on her yacht.

DANCE TO HONOR PLAYERS AT B.C. TENNIS TOURNEY

Visiting Stars to Be Guests at Thursday's Dance; Drive Wednesday

In honor of the visiting players who have arrived from all parts of Canada and the United States to participate in the annual B.C. Lawn Tennis Championships being held all this week at the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club, several social functions have been arranged by the local committee.

On Wednesday evening, the visitors will be guests at a moonlight drive to the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory at Little Saanich Mountain, where they will be shown the giant telescope and other instruments. The view from this vantage point is a particularly beautiful one on a clear, moonlight night.

For Thursday evening at 9 o'clock the committee has arranged a dance at Hamsterley-Lakeside in honor of the visitors, when it is hoped the general public will support the occasion and thus do honor to the visiting tennis stars. Tickets for the affair may be obtained from any of the members of the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club or at the scene of the dance.

CONCERT IN OPEN AIR TO-MORROW

Arion Club to Sing at Parliament Buildings For Jubilee Hospital

Nurses from the Royal Jubilee Hospital in their attractive uniforms will take up a collection at the open-air concert to be given by the Arion Club at the Parliament Buildings to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock. The proceeds of the collection will be handed in its entirety to the board of directors of the hospital.

The Arion Club, the veteran male voice choir of the city and known throughout the Pacific Northwest for its excellent choral work, has chosen a most attractive programme, including some of its most popular favorites, old and new.

The programme will be: "Away, Away," vocal march (F. H. Brakett); "If I But Knew" (W. G. Smith); "Mynheer Van Dunck" (Sir Henry Bishop); male quartette, Messrs. Tupman, Draper, Buckler and Palmer; "In Picardie" (G. L. Osgood); "Three Doughtie Men" (H. R. Humphries); "Lutzow's Wild Chase" (C. M. Von Weber); "On the Sea" (Dudley Buck); "Evening," with baritone solo by Mr. Green (F. Abt.); tenor solo, Thomas Kelway; "The Beleagured" (Sir A. Sullivan); "John Peel" (arranged by J. E. West); God Save the King.

The choir will be ranged on the steps of the buildings, and as the setting is unusually beautiful and the beneficiary cause unusually deserving, it is anticipated that residents as well as visitors will turn out in force for this annual concert.

NEW WAYS TO MAKE DESSERTS

This is the season of all others when desserts are in demand. Here are two new ways to make old favorites suggested by Delineator:

De Luxe Lemon Pie—One cup coarse soft bread crumbs (no crust); half cup butter, three-quarters to one cup sugar, one large lemon (juice and rind), four eggs, half teaspoon salt, one-sixteenth teaspoon soda. Pour one cup boiling water on crumbs, butter, sugar and salt. Add flavoring and beaten egg yolks. Fold in beaten whites of two eggs and soda. Pour on uncooked crust, bake in hot oven, 450 degrees, a half-hour. Make a meringue of the two egg whites slightly beaten, one-third cup sugar and one sixteenth teaspoon baking powder. Brown in a slow oven, 300 degrees.

Raspberry Ice Cream—One cup raspberry juice, one cup seedless raisins, half cup raspberry, two cups milk, three tablespoons flour, one-quarter cup sugar, one cup cream, one teaspoon vanilla, one-eighth teaspoon salt. Plump raisins by bringing to a boil in the raspberry juice, and letting stand (several hours if possible). Drain (reserving liquid) and cool. Moisten sugar and flour with one-half cup cold milk, add to one and one-half cups scalded milk and cook until thick, stirring constantly. When cool add vanilla, salt, cream and raspberry juice and pulp. Freeze to a mush, add raisins and finish freezing.

Is Your Ice-box Filled Correctly?

Whether your foods keep well or not depends to a great extent on where they are placed in the refrigerator, points out a writer in Delineator.

"Since cold air drops and warms air rises," says this expert, "the area in a refrigerator directly under the opening at the bottom of the ice compartment is the coldest. In a side icer this is the compartment with the small door, and in selecting a new box be sure that this door is large enough to make easy the insertion of a quart milk bottle.

"As the chilled air circulates through the food compartments, heat from foods is absorbed, as are also odors. It is therefore advisable to place all foods with strong odors in the upper areas so that they will not tend to flavor butter or eggs, for as this somewhat warmed air passes over the ice, both heat and odors are removed.

"In the top icer type of box, the coldest place is directly beneath the opening between ice and food compartments, whether this opening be a large oval below the ice tray or a long space at the rear of the partition."

"It is obvious," continues the Delineator, "that the coldest section of an excellent refrigerator is the only desirable place for baby's milk. Meat, butter and eggs are also very perishable and are therefore close rivals for this limited space, while left-overs which have been cooked to help preserve them and fruits which we store in a refrigerator purely because we desire to make them more palatable may be kept in the warmer areas of the box.

CHILDREN BOUND TO PICK UP PROFANITY AT SOME TIME

A Worried Mother writes:

"Being a constant reader of your column, and having a two-year-old who is into everything, I am naturally interested in your advice.

"Your answer in a recent paper was just the kind I needed, in regard to mothers who scream at and spank the baby. I am sorry to admit this to you, but he is so constantly into things that he is sometimes beyond my management. He is a darling, affectionate boy and very quick to learn. He can recite pieces and songs and is very sturdy and healthy.

"He has adopted some terrible profanity from children who play in the yard adjoining ours. When he becomes angry, regardless of where we are, he shouts such vile language that his father and I are mortified to tears. My parents say we do wrong to punish him, that he will forget the words sooner if ignored. How must I manage this affair? He tries to harm any child who plays with him, by pulling their hair or slapping an adult who tries to pick him up. It is seldom that he is entertaining and kind to children. What shall I do?"

ANSWER

You can understand that it seems altogether admirable that the boy learns pieces and songs quickly, but not admirable when his natural curiosity and "brightness" lead him to investigate things which to you are annoying. The two things are both sides of the same cloth. A naturally alert child wants to know everything about his surroundings. We can't stand over them all day long at this period and keep them from hurting themselves, so during those periods when we must leave them to their own devices we have to provide a safe place for them and give them only those playthings which they can neither hurt nor be hurt by. A play pen solves this difficulty indoors or out, or a fenced yard. If one doesn't overdo this, to the point of natural resentment at being penned up, the child will be happy and safe for several hours each day and asleep another few hours and the rest of the time the mother can devote to keeping him interested with the right kind of toys, or else helping him to get acquainted with his surroundings.

The best way to handle the problem of profanity is to prevent his hearing the other children talking until he has forgotten this. Your parents are quite right, for punishment impresses it upon the child that in some way he is being cute, or annoying. I doubt if he could remember these words six weeks. When he plays with children roughly make him play alone, and urge people not to pick him up. I don't blame children for resenting this latter treatment and if he has been spanked and slapped he will retaliate in the same way when angered. After all you have to let him forget these things by forgetting to do them yourself.

McKinley Here With Big List

American Mail Liner Arrived From Orient and Philippines With One of Largest Lists to Be Carried This Year; Cargo Includes Valuable Shipment of Raw Silk and Silk Goods

With one of the largest passenger lists to arrive here this year on an American Mail liner, the President McKinley arrived at William Head quarantine station this morning at 6 o'clock, docking an hour later at the Ritchet piers from China, Japan and the Philippines. The liner experienced delightful weather all during the eleven days crossing with smooth seas and plenty of sunshine. "We had glorious weather, commented Capt. Robert E. Cirey, after he had docked his charge at this port apart from a little fog as we were approaching the coast."

BROUGHT BIG LIST

There were 323 passengers in all classes on the McKinley. Of these fifty-seven were in the first cabin, and the remainder in the steerage. Six first class passengers left the vessel here as well as twenty-three steerage. There were more than 100 Fillipinos in the steerage bound for various parts of the United States. The steerage passengers who left at this port were mostly Chinese bound for various parts of Canada. The first cabin passengers who landed at Victoria were Mrs. C. M. Bleeker and her three sons and G. H. Davies and Mrs. Davies. Mrs. Bleeker is the wife of J. J. Bleeker, senior partner of Bleeker and Weyler, Exchange Brokers of Shanghai, and is en route to Holland on a vacation trip. She is registered at the Empress Hotel, and will leave to-morrow for the Atlantic coast, where she will board a liner for Europe.

VALUABLE CARGO

More than 5,000 tons of Oriental cargo, including a valuable shipment of raw silk and silk goods filled the holds of the big liner. Of this consignment about 300 tons were left off here. The Victoria cargo included forty bales of raw silk and ninety-six cases of made-up silk goods, as well as the usual cargo of tea, rice, rattan furniture, curios and hemp. For Seattle the ship had 2,278 bales of raw silk and 108 cases of silk goods, as well as 1,200 tons of wood oil and other general cargo.

MAIL CONSIGNMENT

For Canada and the United States there were 1,520 bags of mail on board the McKinley. Of these 122 were left off at Victoria, 108 for the local port and other parts of Canada, and fourteen by air-mail for Seattle.

PROMINENT PASSENGERS

Among the first cabin passengers on board the McKinley was R. F. Evans, vice-president of the C. K. Eagle and Company of New York, silk manufacturers. Accompanied by Mrs. Evans and their daughter, he is returning from a pleasure and business trip of the Orient. Others on board were Mrs. F. P. Beeson, wife of the owner of Beeson and Company of Shanghai, en rotue to New Jersey, where she will visit with friends; Isaac B. Cohen of the New York Merchandise Company of New York, returning from a business trip to the Far East; Clarence W. Cumming of the Kullman, Seiz Company of Japan, on a business trip to the United States; Commander Richard B. Derickson, returning to the United States from his station at Manila, with the U.S. Coast and Goedetic Survey; Lieut. L. E. Ellis, returning to the United States after three years' duty with the U.S. Navy in Asiatic waters; A. P. LINER'S PURSER CELEBRATES TWO SEA BIRTHDAYS

Two birthdays in one year for one individual. It seems rather an extraordinary occurrence, yet this is exactly what happened on the last crossing of the American Mail liner President McKinley, which arrived here this morning from the Orient.

When Purser Leo P. Breyman went to bed on the evening of July 25 he thought he had finished celebrating his birthday. His fellow officers had given him a dinner and he had received congratulations and presents from people on the ship.

To his surprise next morning he awakened to find that it was still July 25, and therefore still his birthday. The liner had crossed the 180th meridian. "I got no more dinners though," commented Purser Breyman, "but congratulations still poured in."

Officials Spend Week-end in City

Several officials of the American Mail line spent the week-end in Victoria coming over from Seattle on Saturday afternoon on the liner President Jackson and returning this morning on the liner President McKinley. The party was headed by G. F. Weymueller, representative of the Dollar Steamship Line, the American Mail line and the Pacific Steamship Company in New York. Mr. Weymueller left Victoria on Saturday evening for Vancouver, returning here yesterday afternoon and leaving again for Seattle this morning. It was Mr. Weymueller's first visit to Victoria and he was delighted with the city. Other officials included A. F. Haines, vice-president of the American Mail line with headquarters at Seattle, accompanied by Mrs. Haines, and H. M. Cady, publicity representative of the line.

Millions of Tourists Cross Border Points

Courtesy of Canadian Customs and Immigration Men and the Efficiency of Transportation Officials Win Praise From Holidaymakers Visiting This Province

Appreciation of the courtesy of Canadian immigration and customs officers and the expedition with which officers of transportation companies handle business in the heavy rush of the tourist season was expressed by a Louisiana traveler and his party before boarding the Victoria Anacortes ferry last night.

"We have had a wonderful holiday in Canada" he said, "and we have had service with a smile everywhere. Since leaving Louisiana we have crossed the border at a number of different points, and at every point we have been impressed with the courtesy shown to U.S. tourists. You certainly make them feel they are welcome here."

TRAVEL GROWS

Uncompleted figures for this month show an increase in the international travel over the ferries this Summer compared with last year, and every prospects of a record being established. With more ferries on the run, offering added points of entry on Vancouver Island, each vessel is carrying as many passengers as in previous years. Reports of tourist travel from the East show that the condition is general thoughout the Dominion.

"The opening months of the tourist season at Niagara Falls bridges indicated that the volume of travel this Summer will reach large proportions," says a report received by George L. Warren, publicity commissioner. "The total number of automobiles passing over the three bridges in April and May was 281,822, made up of 140,445 inwards and 114,377 outwards. Other vehicle made up the total and the passengers totaled 1,369,936."

The total of cars crossing for the year usually runs well over 2,000,000.

MISSIONARIES FEATURE LIST

Large Number Passed Through Victoria To-day on President McKinley

A large number of missionaries returning to their homes in the United States on furlough from their duties in China and Japan featured the first class list on the American Mail liner President McKinley, when that ship arrived here from the Orient this morning.

Among the missionaries on board this morning were Miss Elizabeth M. Evans, returning from five years' work in Japan with the northern Presbyterian Mission Board; Miss Clare Armstrong, returning to the United States from work in China and Japan under the National Board of the Y.W.C.A.; William B. Burke, returning on vacation from China where he has been working with the Board of Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church; E. C. Goodenberger returning to his home in the United States with his wife and two children before leaving again to take up his work in the Orient; Dr. W. T. Hobart with the Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church in China returning to his home in Illinois after many years' work in China; Miss Clara Howard of the Women's Missionary Council of the M.E. church returning to her home in Georgia after work in Japan; Miss B. D. Lee of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, making her first trip to the United States from China, to attend an United States university for two years before returning to her work in China; Miss May Bell Thompson of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society, returning on furlough to her home in New York from China; Miss Laura M. White, with the M.E. Church, returning on a prolonged stay, from duty in China; Dr. T. M. Yates of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church, returning to Georgia with Mrs. Yates and their two children from duties in China.

Marine Notes

The Furness Pacific liner Pacific Trader left San Francisco for this port Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, according to word received in the city this morning by King Brothers, local agents. Giving the vessel sixty hours to come up the coast she should arrive here early to-morrow morning. For Victoria she has a hundred tons of cargo and several passengers. She is from the United Kingdom.

With one hundred tons of fish meal for Victoria from the West Coast, the Canadian National freighter Canadian Coaster, docked at Ogden Point at 6.30 o'clock yesterday evening. She sailed for Vancouver at 10 o'clock

TO PRESERVE WHIFFEN SPIT

Measures Taken to Block Break Threatening to Create Island

If the measures taken to preserve Whiffen spit are not effective the lighthouse and fish reduction plant on the spit will soon be on an island, the Sooke correspondent of The Victoria Times writes.

Representations on the seriousness of the break have caused action to be taken to prevent further silting and the Dominion Government has placed some exceptionally large spars and baulks of timber across the break, fastening them and holding them together with massive iron chains, steel hawsers and anchors. One of the baulks has a circumference of nearly thirty feet. If these efforts are not successful there will be two entrances to the harbor.

Some people believe, writes The Times correspondent that this will be an advantage as by these means much of the silt brought down by the river to the harbor which is forming sand bars will be carried out to sea and in consequence the harbor itself will be more navigable for ships and steamers.

CREW OF THREE BATTLES WAVES

Heavy Seas and Fog Give California Speedboat All Night Struggle

Avalon, Catalina Island, Calif., July 30.—The speedboat Lucky Strike was brought into harbor early Sunday after an all-night battle by its crew of three for life against heavy seas, fog and fire, many miles out from here on the San Pedro Channel.

The speedboat, with Robert Dematels, owner; Roy Spindler and a chauffeur aboard, left Avalon Saturday afternoon for the mainland. At a point some eight miles from the objective, heavy seas were encountered and the motor began to fail.

For hours the craft drifted about almost helplessly. Then the motor backfired and the boat caught fire. The three men brought the flames under control after desperate work, but Spindler was overcome. Flares set off by Dematels brought the channel steamer Cabrillo to the speedboat's side and Spindler, then violently ill, was taken aboard. The two others refused to leave their craft.

A coastguard cutter sent out from San Pedro sought for hours in a heavy fog before locating the speedboat.

LAW PARTY ON VISIT TO CITY

U.S. Bar Delegates Aboard Special Steamship From Seattle

Men of the United States Bar Association, 700 strong, came to Victoria on Saturday afternoon aboard a specially chartered vessel, Ss. Princess Patricia, from Seattle. They had een in attendance at the convention of the Bar Association at Seattle, on the celebration of the fifty-first anniversary of the foundation of that organization.

Following on the heels of a party of legal men from Chicago and the southern and eastern States, which came here earlier in the week, the excursionists spent four hours here, guests of the Victoria and Seattle Bar Association.

There were a number of ladies on the trip, accompanying their husands. The majority of the visitors drove by automobile to points of interest about the city and environs.

Members of the Victoria Bar Association greeted the visitors on their arrival here. These included A. D. Macfarlane, president; W. C. Moresby, past president; Knox Courtney, E. V. Finland; A. M. Johnson, K.C.; Henry C. Hall, K.C., and H. E. A. Courtney.

The Kingsley Navigation Company's freighter E. D. Kingsley docked at the Rithet piers last evening about 10 o'clock from San Francisco with 135 tons of general cargo. After discharging she sailed this morning at 9 o'clock for James Island with a consignment of glycerine.

IYO MARU DOCKS AFTER FINE TRIP

N.Y.K. Liner Completes Record Trip From Orient; Good Passenger List

After a smooth and uneventful trip from China and Japan the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Iyo Maru docked at the Rithet Piers yesterday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock, more than twelve hours ahead of schedule. Splendid weather conditions across the Pacific enabled the liner to make this record time.

Six passengers disembarked at this port. These included one Japanese first-class passenger and five steerage. For Seattle the vessel had twenty-six passengers, eleven first class and fifteen steerage. A cosmopolitan gathering featured the steerage list, there being Japanese, Chinese, British, Russians, Germans and Norwegians.

One of the biggest exporters and importers in the whole of the Orient, Lin Feng Ting of Tientsin, China, was a passenger on the Iyo en route to the United States on a buying trip. Others in the first class included Miss Veronica Flynn of Portland, Oregon, a curio dealer returning from a buying trip, and Miss Maxine Schanneh of Pendelton, Oregon, traveling with Miss Flynn. Miss Schanneh is a school teacher of the Oregon city, and has been on a pleasure trip in China and Japan.

For Victoria there were sixty-two tons of cargo, including several tons of raw silk for Vancouver and the East, porcelain, Oriental rugs and general. For Seattle the vessel had 3,070 bales of raw silk, several cases of made-up silk goods, glass ware and the usual consignment of tea and rice. There were 1,118 tons in all.

The Iyo left for Seattle and other Puget Sound ports at 5.30 o'clock.

Steerage Passenger Distracted By Heat Jumps Overboard

Driven to distraction by the intense heat in Asiatic seas, a Filipino passenger traveling in the steerage of the American Mail liner President MacKinley plunged overboard from the deck of the liner shortly after it had steamed away from Manila harbor it was learned upon the arrival of the vessel at this port this morning. The liner was stopped and a boat lowered and within forty minutes the man was safely aboard the ship again. He was normal when the ship arrived here and will be able to proceed to California this evening.

Seatle Boys Will Provide Music on Ship

On the American Mail liner President Jackson, when she sailed from this port on Saturday afternoon, was a young University of Washington student, James Bigelow, who will lead the liner's orchestra composed of four fellow students, on the Jackson's itinerary to the Orient, the Philippines, Honolulu and then to San Francisco. There the youths, will leave the ship and return to their homes in Seattle, where they will again enter the university.

The trip offered them the chance of a life-time and five highly excited youths peered over the side of the high promenade decks of the liner when she pulled out from the Rithet piers for her long voyage, which will terminate for the young members of the orchestra late in September.

The director is the son of Raymond Bigelow, president and manager of Chasty's Incorporated, one of the largest men's stores in the Northwest.

The time used is Pacific standard, for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of lower low water.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Esquimalt drydock at any tide, add 18.9 feet to the height of high water as above given.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Songhees drydock add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given.

Chaney Immortalizes Fast Passing Race of Old-time Stage Clowns

Dramatic Picture With Powerful Star in Leading Role Comes to the Dominion Theatre; "Laugh, Clown, Laugh!" Is Gripping, Dramatic and Full of Pathos

Lon Chaney's latest and perhaps greatest role of the screen immortalizes a fast-dying race. So the famous character actor declares, in describing his role in "Laugh, Clown, Laugh," Herbert Brenon's spectacular Metro-Goldwyn-Hayer production now at the Dominion Theatre. For the clown of the old stage, harlequinades and the circus is passing.

While at work on the new screen drama Chaney entertained an old friend in "Toto," last of the great clowns. "Toto" is still a star of the stage with his clown make-up—but probably the last. "Silvers" Oakley, who made millions laugh, died by his own hand in a tragic finish. Chester Conklin and "Poodles" Hannaford forsook clowning for the moving pictures.

Steel Plant Is Part of Setting For Big Picture

"Men of Steel" Is Impressive Film of Toilers of Great Industry

For what is believed to be the first time in the history of motion pictures an entire steel plant, including its man power, was turned over to a motion picture company for the making of a picture.

This happened when Director George Archainbaud wanted to film an impressive funeral scene in "Men of Steel," the spectacular First National special which is now showing at the Variety Theatre here.

The company was in Birmingham for more than a month making steel-mill scenes. Then came the time to make the most impressive scene of the picture, a "steel funeral." There is a steel mill custom which says that if a man falls to his death in a vat of molten metal the vat with its contents will be buried with impressive ceremonies. Such a funeral has a place in the picture.

Officials of the Ensley Mills of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company hesitated to allow outsiders in vast numbers to flock into the yards of the mill. Finally they decided to issue a call for their workers and their families to take the place of the extras needed for the scene. More than 2,000 turned out and took part in the scene, which will be one of the big moments in this great picture. Officials of the mill acted as pallbearers.

Young Canadian Is Director Of "The Big Noise"

Toronto Man Is "High Up" in Film Industry; Rose From Ranks

With ten years' experience as a motion picture director behind him, in which he has made stories of every possible type, Allan Dwan is a veteran of the films, although he is still in his early thirties.

Dwan was born in Toronto, Canada, where he received his early education and attended Notre Dame University, where he played quarter-back on the football team, under the guidance of the famous Knute Rockne.

A short period as a newspaper reporter and Dwan entered the then infant film industry as a scenario writer for the old Essanay company. He was story editor and director for the old American Film Company for three years, and since then has directed for virtually all the larger studios.

His outstanding productions include "Robin Hood," Douglas Fairbanks's long remembered picture, "Glimpses of the Moon" and many others of equal note.

He has been associated with Robert Kane for some time, and has directed and supervised a number of pictures, including "The Whip Woman," "Mad Hour," "French Dressing," "For the Love of Mike" and others.

Dodge's Famous Play Basis For Fine Film

"Thirteenth Juror" Based on Play for the Defence"

"The Thirteenth Juror," a Universal-Jewel production, with an all featured cast headed by Francis X. Bushman and Anna Q. Nilsson and directed by Edward Laemmle, has been booked at the Columbia Theatre this week.

The picture is a screen version of Henry Irving Dodge's celebrated stage play, "Counsel for the Defence," and is said to be the greatest drama of its kind ever screened. It deals with the efforts of a famous criminal attorney to avoid the consequences of his own crime by defending an innocent man.

In the opinion of many, the stage play did more good in the eliminating of useless red tape in the law courts throughout the land than any other single factor and it is believed that the film version will be an even more powerful plea for swifter justice.

The supporting cast is headed by Walter Pidgeon and includes such well-known players as Martha Mattox, Sidney Bracy, Sailor Sharkey, Fred Kelsey, Lloyd Whitlock ad many others.

"The Thirteenth Juror" affords Bushman his finest vehicle since "Ben Hur" and he is said to reach emotional and dramatic heights in this picture that even outshine that famous epic of the screen.

It's Real Handicap to be Movie Star's Brother in Hollywood

Colleen Moore and her brother, Cleve . . . he hopes to rise to stardom by his own efforts.

He should be good—he's So and So's brother, or son, or whatever the relationship might be.

That is the line that is heard so often around Hollywood. If a famous film star has a relative, that relative is expected to be a good actor. And, their talent being taken for granted, they are under a terrific handicap when they start out to carve their own niches in the cinema annals. The Costello sisters, Dolores and Helene, will tell you what it means. So can Doug Fairbanks Jr. Not long ago, all were just beginners. But they were treated like old troupers—because their parents were famous.

For the last year Clare Moore has been laboring under the same handicap. Cleve has the possibilities of a popular leading man. But he needs grooming, just as any other youth breaking into pictures would. Yet because he happens to be the brother of the extremely popular and lovely Colleen Moore, directors sort of take him for granted.

"He'll get along okay; he's Colleen's brother," they say.

And Cleve has gotten along—in spite of the fact that he is Collen's brother. Of course, Colleen helps him all she can by telling him what he should and shouldn't do. She even gave him his first real start by having him cast as her screen brother in "We Moderns." But she can't give him personality and ability, the things that have carried him to his present position on the cinema highway.

Cleve deserves a lot of credit, more than if he weren't the kid brother of a famous personage. One proof that Cleve isn't depending upon any outside influence to put him across is the fact that he has made only three pictures on the First National lot. Two of those were with Colleen and one was with Billie Dove. He played in one picture on the F. B. O. lot, made two at Paramount and has just finished playing an important role in "The Air Circus" at Fox.

"I wouldn't want Colleen or anyone else to think that I'm not grateful to her for what she has done for me," declared the kid brother. "But as far as my screen career goes, I would have been much better off if Colleen had never stepped in front of a camera."

Cleve is now twenty-four and is as handsome a young leading man as can be found anywhere in celluloids. He bears a strong resemblance to his more famous sister, too. And he's an athlete, having won the southern California fancy diving championship in 1924. He also was a strong candidate for the American Olympic swimming team the same year.

ARION SINGERS AT METCHOSIN

Large Audience Shows Appreciation of Excellent Programme

Metchosin, July 28—The Arion Club added another success to their long list of triumphs when they gave a most enjoyable concert in the Metchosin Hall last night. The programme included "Lutzen's Wild Chase," "Picardie," "Myn Herr Van Dunck," "If I But Knew," "John Peel," "Evening," "Three Doughtie Men," "Soldier's Farewell," and "On the Sea," by the choir, and solos by Mr. George Phillips and Mr. Llewelyn Jones. Quartettes, humorous and otherwise, and an oration by Mr. C. Scrivener—a nervous bridegroom's response to a toast at the wedding breakfast and concluded with Beethoven's beautiful "Night." Each item was exceedingly well rendered and received with much enjoyment by a large and appreciative audience. The beauty of the tonal modulations in the choral singing was specially noticeable. H. C. Helgesen was a genial and efficient chairman and in the course of a very brief speech offered the choir the greatest honor in his gift—the freedom of the hall. A vote of thanks for the concert which had been such a pleasure and would always be a delightful memory was proposed by Rev. Wm. Gemmill, ably seconded by Mr. F. F. Frudd and carried with enthusiasm. At the conclusion of the concert supper was served by a committee of ladies under the direction of Mrs. H. C. Helgesen including Mrs. Deveson, Mrs. McVicker, Mrs. W. Witty and Mrs. Frudd who wish to thank all the ladies who brought such generous donations of beautiful cakes. Dancing was then enjoyed to excellent music. The thanks of the community are tendered to Mr. H. C. Helgesen for his instrumentality in affording them the opportunity of hearing this famous choir.

A meeting of the Metchosin Sheep Breeders' Association was held at "Tiswilde," the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. McVicker on Wednesday evening with many local sheep breeders present. A constitution was considered and adopted. A vote of thanks was accorded to Mrs. O. M. Jones for the use of her farm for the recent very successful sheep shearing demonstration. After discussing the annoyance caused by hunters and their dogs trespassing on the farms, the association decided to place warning notices in prominent places on the fences and to advertise this fact in the papers.

Mrs. H. C. Helgesen has as her guests Miss Coton from Keating and Miss Wallis of Victoria.

Mrs. C. Pike of Sasseenos and family are enjoying a holiday with Mr. J. D. McCreight.

Mr. R. R. Gibbs, who has been living in Metchosin since his return from England is visiting in Victoria before leaving for the Interior where he will reside in future.

The sympathy of the entire district is extended to C. E. Whitney-Griffiths and W. L. Whitney-Griffiths and their sister on the death of their mother after a lingering and painful illness. Service was conducted at the McCall Funeral Parlors by Mrs. Ol'Range. The hymns "Beautiful Rest," and the solo "Lead Kindly Light" being sung. The remains were laid to rest in St. Mary's Churchyard, Metchosin, Rev. H. M. Bolton officiating. The pallbearers being Wm. Heatherbell, H. C. Helgesen, Chester Field and W. O. Sweatman.

Colleen Moore Plays Heavy Drama With a Spice of Humor Added

Winsome Little Star of First National Film Has Charming Character Role in Capitol Film, "Happiness Ahead"; Story of Innocent Girl Who Marries City Card Sharper Has Appeal

In a picture decidedly different from anything in which she has appeared in the past, Colleen Moore, winsome First National star, is now at the Capitol Theatre in her latest starring picture, "Happiness Ahead."

Although this production provides her with every opportunity to display her excellent flair for comedy, Miss Moore will also be seen in moments of deep drama, in which she is said to hav proven an unusually capable actress.

"Happiness Ahead" is the story of a little country girl who marries a city card-sharp, believing him to be an entirely honest young business man. The manner in which she discovers the truth, and the subsequent action of the principal characters, gives "Happiness Ahead" a plot which is unique in the extreme. Edmund Lowe plays the chief supporting role in "Happiness Ahead," which was written by Edmund Goulding. Other members of the supporting cast are Lilyan Tashman, Edythe Chapman, Charles Sellon, Robert Elliott and Virginia Sale. John McCormick produced "Happiness Ahead," which William A. Seiter directed from a scenario prepared by Benjamin Glazer.

Civic Employees Hold Memorable Outing at Goldstream

The eighth annual picnic of the Civic Employees' Protective Association, held at Goldstream Flats on Saturday, proved most successful, over 500 men, women and children attending. The arrangements were under the general supervision of Samuel Howard, the reception committee being George Okell and S. Osburne.

Transportation arrangements were excellent. Large buses left the City Hall from 9 o'clock, and returned the picnickers at 9 o'clock in the evening, the organization being in charge of J. Hooper.

Luncheon was served at noon and supper sittings commenced at 6 o'clock, Mesdames Hill and Oliver being in charge, with refreshments supervised by W. Carter and C. Ingram.

During the afternoon an excellent programme of sports was carried out, the softball game between the outside and inside civic staffs being won by the outside employees by a score of 15-6. The grounds and sports committee was D. McCall, R. McIlmoyl, S. L. Wilson, T. Rhodes, R. McKenzie, J. Griffiths, W. Hook, J. Cruickshanks and J. Hamilton.

The entertainment committee provided a novel variety show in which the following took part: Frank Merryfield, magician; Madge Wallace, Highland dances, assisted by Pipe Major Donald Cameron, and W. Cobbett, who presented a one-man circus. Mrs. J. Carl Pendray and Mrs. John Harvey judged the beauty contest for children between six and nine years of age. The entertainment committee was W. Cobbett and William Farmer.

Mayor J. Carl Pendray and Aldermen P. R. Brown, J. B. Clearihue and John Harvey represented the City Council.

The prize winners in the sports competitions were as follows:

NEW CONTROL FOR CANNERY

Holsum Products Limited Secures Additional Capital

The annual meeting of Holsum Products Limited, held on Saturday, was featured by the announcement that the company had been strengthened by the acquisition of new capital and now has the support of all three co-operative fruit marketing associations.

The following were elected to the directorate: W. W. Duncan, J. E. Sladen, G. Porter, L. Bachelor, I. Nodek, W. O. Wallace and A. H. Alexander. Mr. Duncan was named chairman of the board and Mr. Sladen elected managing director and secretary-treasurer. The Lake Hill cannery will continue under the management of Harry Beach.

The additional capital has been provided by residents of Saanich closely identified with the small fruit industry. It is expected that the Holsum Products plant at Lake Hill will occupy an increasingly important position as an outlet for strawberries and other small fruits of the Saanich peninsula.

Ocean Beach

Members of the Burnside Bowling Club, with their friends, numbering about fifty in all, spent an enjoyable afternoon last Wednesday at this popular resort. Swimming was enjoyed by many of the party. After supper had been served the party were entertained by the Imperial Quartette, A. Palmer, J. W. Buckler, F. Tupman and W. Draper.

Season Tickets for Everyone

THE new tariff of season tickets now in effect has proved tremendously popular. Hundreds have welcomed the opportunity to swim any day . . . any time . . . at a cost so trifling. By purchasing a season ticket it actually costs but a few cents a day to swim in the finest sea water pool on the American Continent!

FORD NEGOTIATES FOR PIPE ORGAN

Providence, R.I., July 30.—For the first time since he became one of the world's richest men, Henry Ford is perhaps going to find his desires thwarted. Rhode Island millionaires and a bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church are prepared to give him battle, with a little antiquated pipe organ now in the Christian Church at Portsmouth as the casus belli.

If the organ in question proves to be the organ which George Berkeley, Lord Bishop of Cloyne, presented Trinity Church, Newport, in 1733, and which was removed from the church many years later to make way for a large and better one, Mr. Ford, who has entered into negotiations for its purchase, cannot have it, say Bishop Darlington of Pennsylvania, John Nicholas Brown, former Governer R Livingston Beeckman and others

If it proves not to be the Berkeley organ, he will be allowed to take it away, and thus add what undoubtedly is a treasure of its kind, even without definite historical connections, to his collection of antique musical instruments now housed in Dearborn, Michigan.

Colwood

Colwood, July 30.—With the co-operation of the Colwood Women's Institute and the Senior W. A. to St. John's Church, the annual picnic of the St. John's Sunday School to Beaver Lake was an enjoyable outing.

Various sports, including swimming races, were enjoyed by a large number of children. Capt. James undertook the details of the treasure hunt, while the sports committee was composed of L. Pealt, R. W. Robinson, Rev. H. B. Allen and J. W. Little. Mrs. J. Dunsmuir kindly donated ice cream, and also arranged for the transportation. A box of peaches donated by Mrs. C. Goodall were greatly enjoyed.

Mrs. H. Parker convened the tea, being assisted by the ladies.

The winners in the various events were as follows:

Treasure hunt—Olive Walsh and Jimmy Wilson.

Flat race (8 years)—Kathleen Goodall, Mildred Peatt.

Boys (8-11 years)—Sheldon Piercy, Sammy Johnson.

Girls (8-11 years)—Lyn Piercy, Lilly Holt.

Boys' three-legged race — Godon Walsh and Reggie Piercy, Dick Meadows and Sheldon Piercy.

Girls' three-legged race—Irene Peatt and Olive Walsh, Lilly Holt and Lyn Piercy.

Potato race, boys—Dick Meadows; girls, Beryl Piercy, Olive Walsh.

Obstacle race—Gordon Walsh, Jimmy Wilson.

Swimming race—Reggie Piercy and Ernest Meadows, Irene Peatt and Lilly Holt.

Mrs. Berner, with her son and daughter, of Prince Rupert, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Tyler.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Goucher and Miss Kathleen Goucher of Island Highway, have left for a motor trip, visiting Vancouver, Seattle and other points on the Mainland.

Miss Jean Murray is spending a holiday in Seattle.

NURMI SETS OLYMPIC RECORD

Flying Finn Proves He Still Has Speed By Remarkable Race

Wins 10,000 Metres at Amsterdam and Shaves Four and Four-fifth Seconds Off Record Set by Willie Ritola, Who Finishes One Second Behind His Conqueror; John Kuck, of U.S., Tosses Shot to New Record; King, of U.S., Wins High Jump; Canadians Doing Well

Olympic Stadium, Amsterdam, July 30.—The opening of Olympic track and field competition was signalized yesterday by the production of three champions and the breaking of two Olympic records.

Paavo Nurmi, famed Finnish phantom, galloped away with the 10,000 metres finals and clipped 4 4-5 seconds off the Olympic record, set in 1924 at Paris by Willie Ritola, also of Finland. Ritola finished second to-day, a step or two behind the great Nurmi.

John Kuck, of Kansas, won the shot put final with a world's record heave of 52 feet 11-16 inch.

Bob King, Stanford, also competing for the United States, won the high jump final with a leap of 6 feet 4 3-8 inches.

CANADIANS DO WELL

Canada's representatives in the dashes did remarkably well.

Among the outstanding performances was the winning of his heat in the second trials of the 100 metres by Percy Williams, of Vancover, in 10 3-5, equalling the world's record. Fitzpatrick, of Hamilton, was second to Legg, of South Africa, in his heat.

Both Williams and Fitzpatrick had won their preliminary heats in 11 seconds.

In the second trials, the first two finishers qualified for the semi-finals. George Hessler and Ralph Adams, of Hamilton, were second in preliminaries, but were unplaced in the second trials.

M. A. Wilson and the dusky flash, Phil Edwards, in the colors of Hamilton Olympic Club, easily won their heats in the 800 metres trials. Wilson beat out the Swede, Byhlen, and Sitting, of the United States, in 1.59 1-5. Edwards' time was one-fifth of a second slower.

PELTZER RUNS WELL

In the second heat, Dr. Otto Peltzer, of Germany, showing good form in his first race since his recent injury, raced fast to beat Little, of Canada, and Tathan, of Great Britain, in 1.57 2-5.

Peter Walker was unplaced in a heat won by Lloyd Hahn, of Boston, in the fastest time of the day, 1.56 4-5.

Douglas Lowe, of Great Britain, the defending champion, qualified by finishing second to Dengra, of the Argentine.

Lord Burghley, of England, won the opening heat of the 400-metre hurdles in which Bob Maxwell, of the United States, was second.

Emmon Shone, of Montreal, was third in his heat.

In the first semi-final of this event, three to qualify for the final to-day, Lord Burghley finished third, but in the second semi-final, Thomas C. Livingston-Learmouth, of Great Britain, won in 54 seconds flat.

Great Britain broke into the point-winning column in the 10,000 metres final in which A. T. Muggridge finished fifth.

In the shot put the United States took three of the first four places; only the Teuton star, Emil Hirschfeld, was able to break into the charmed circle.

In giving the United States its second Olympic championship by winning the high jump, King failed to break the Olympic record but leaped six feet 4⅜ inches to take first place. In winning the title, King displaced the veteran, Hal Osborne, who holds the Olympic record of six feet six inches, made in Paris in 1924.

Alex. Munro, of Toronto, was seventh in one of the previous trial jumps which was won by Kimura of Japan.

FINNS HAVE IT OWN WAY

Paavo Nurmi flashed into the limelight by romping home to a fine victory in the 10,000-metre run with his countryman, Willie Ritola, following at his heels in second place.

Joie Ray, hope of the United States team, was lapped. Nurmi broke Ritola's Olympic record by covering the distance in 30 minutes 16 2-5 seconds.

The flying Finns ran the race by themselves over the last 3,000 metres after shaking off their only real rival, Edvin Wide of Sweden.

out the long grind, and spurted only as they swung into stretch, winning by three yards. Ray made no attempt to keep up with the Finns after he realized the hopelessness of such a task and finished twelfth, one and one-half laps behind the winner.

Ritola's time was only one second slower than that of Nurmi, placing both of the Finns well within Ritola's former Olympic mark of 30 minutes 23 1-5 seconds at Paris in 1924.

FINAL SUMMARIES

10,000 metre run, won by Paavo Nurmi, Finland; second, Willie Ritola, Finland; third, Edvin Wide, Sweden; fourth, J. G. Lindgren; fifth A. T. Muggridge, Great Britain; sixth, Magnusson, Sweden. Time 30 minutes 18 2-5 seconds (new Olympic record).

High jump, won by Robert W. King, 1.94 metres, 6 feet 4⅜ inches; second, tied between Ben Hedges Jr., United States, and M. Menard, France, 1.91 metres, 6 feet ¼ inch; Hedges won the jump off for second place medal and points; fourth, A. Corrisco, Philippine Island; fifth, Harold M. Osborne, United States; sixth, Pierre Lewden, France. (Heights for last three places not announced.)

Shot put, final, won by John Kuck, United States, distance 15.87 metres (52 feet 11-16 inches); second, Herman Brixon, United States, 51 feet 8 inches; third, Emil Hirschfeld, Germany 51 feet 6⅝ inches; fourth, Eric Krenz, United States, 14.99 metres (49 feet 2 1-16 inches; fifth, Abmas Wahlstedt, Finland, 14.67 metres (48 feet, ⅝ inches; sixth, Wilhelm Oebler, Germany 14.39 metres (47 feet ⅞ inches).

Joe Kirkwood to Give Exhibition At Colwood Club

Joe Kirkwood, fancy trick shot and prominent golfer, formerly of Australia but now of the United States, will pay a visit to Victoria in September and give an exhibition at the Colwood Golf Club, according to an announcement made this morning by Walter Barry, secretary of the club.

Kirkwood will play an eighteen-hole match against local players, give an exhibition of trick shots and finish up with a lecture.

CAPITALS WIN ISLAND BALL HONORS

Defeat Duncan in Double Header, Taking Championship of Southern Section

Meet Courtenay in Play-off For League Title at Date in Near Future

Victoria Capitals cinched the championship of the southern section of the Vancouver Island Baseball League on Saturday afternoon when they handed Duncan a 17-4 walloping at the Royal Athletic Park. In the second fixture, which was an exhibition game, the locals chalked up a 5-1 victory.

As a result of their victory the Capitals earned the right to play off with Courtenay, winners of the northern section, for the championship of the Island League. The first game will be played in Victoria on August 11 and the second in Courtenay the following day. If a third game is necessary it will take place in Nanaimo on August 15. The winners will travel to Vancouver to meet the Mainland champions for the British Columbia title. The Island champions are conceded a first-class chance of winning the provincial championship.

AN EASY TIME

Jimmy Dangerfield hurled the Capitals to an easy win in the afternoon game. He held the Up-islanders scoreless for five innings while his teammates were running up a five-run lead. Dangerfield was nicked for eleven hits

COULTER HEADS IN GOAL, NOSING OUT MONTREAL

New Westminster Score Opening Win in Connaught Cup Soccer Finals

Easterners Twice in Lead But Royals Have Ability to Come Through

Second Game Being Played at Winnipeg To-night; Royals Favored to Win

Winnipeg, July 30.—Finding themselves twice in arrears, the Royals, of New Westminster, had to bring out all their football craft and cunning to gain the honors when they opposed the Nationals, of Montreal, in the first match of the Dominion football championship here Saturday afternoon.

This they did and, after being in arrears at the interval by the odd goal in three, they broke down the Nationals rear division twice in the second half, winning by the score of 3-2.

The second game of the series will be played this evening, and, if a third is necessary, Wednesday.

ROYALS BEST

The Royals won on their merits; they were the better team, but what the Nationals lacked in the finer points of the game they made up in the way they tackled and hustled their opponents. The crowd, estimated at 5,000, was well satisfied with the display and firmly believe the Nationals will be able to give a better account of themselves in the next match.

The team from British Columbia displayed the better positional play. They made better use of the ball, their passing bouts kept the National haves on the move and so busy were they attending to the Royal forwards that their own attacking line suffered.

Finlayson was the only player on the front line of the Montreal team to reach the standard expected and it was this pivot who scored the two goals for his side.

GAIN THE LEAD

With the wind behind them, the Royals at the very outset forced matters. Nelson was soon called upon to clear his goal, but at the end of ten minutes, the first break came. Finlayson forced his way through the Royals' defence and shot at Root who attempted to kick clear, but the Montreal player again gathered the ball and with the Westminster custodian out of his net, Finlayson had no trouble in giving the Nationals the lead.

The goal came as a surprise. It did one thing, it made the Royals realize they were up against a team that could not be played with and they settled down to their task in a workmanlike manner. First Stobbart and then Coulter tried to get through. Turner skinned the bar with a hard drive and when all appeared lost, Nelson made a wonderful save from Kerr. The Royals kept up the pressure, Nelson dropping a shot from Delaney, who regained possession of the ball but was shouldered over the line for a fruitless corner.

EVENED UP

Two spirited raids into the Royals' territory relieved the pressure, but back came Westminster and at the end of twenty-five minutes' play, they scored. Stobbart opened the move that brought the equalizer, his pass out to Kerr was well gathered, the flank man sent in a high ball and Turner, meeting it, gave Nelson no chance, the ball going away from the custodian and into the far side of the net.

The excitement had hardly died down when the Nationals regained the ground they had lost. Coule passed through to Finlayson, who ran in for a yard or two and shot hard and low. Root got his hands to the ball but it escaped the goalie.

Midfield exchanges followed, Westminster played better football. Finlayson fouled Russell and the Westminster pivot retaliated, but the work was stopped and the players were cautioned.

BEHIND AT INTERVAL

Nelson saved well when he picked the ball off Kerr's head and, although Westminster continued to do the pressing, they were still behind at the interval.

The second half was mostly in favor of the Royals, the Nationals appeared to be tired. Their opponents were much smarter on the ball and their cohesion was perfect.

It took seventeen minutes of the second half to place the teams on an equal footing. During this time the Nationals were on the defensive, and when Coulter equalized it was not a surprise, although the goal was secured from a general mix-up in front of the Montreal goal.

This reverse put more life into the Nationals. Finlayson shot hard into the hands of Root and at the other end Nelson saved his side times without number, but at the end of twenty-five minutes' play the deciding goal of the game came. Kerr, on the right wing of the Royals, worked his way through. He centred across the goal and Coulter, in the correct position, met the ball with his head and flicked it into the back of the net, a well-taken goal. This goal was followed almost immediately by another, but as Stobbart fouled the custodian it was disallowed.

Sandy McMahon lined up the following teams:

Westminster Royals—Root; Anderson and Strang; Rimmer, Russel and Delaney; Kerr, Stobbart, Coulter, Turner and Chapman.

Montreal C.N.R.—Nelson; Barnes and Swan; Lumsden, Kerr, Duguid; Williams, McGuire, Finlayson, Henderson and Coule.

Tilden's Defeat on Top Of French Doubles' Win Ends Efforts of U.S. Team

Henri Cochet Proves Man of Hour When He Teams Up With Borotra to Win Five-set Match Over Tilden and Hunter in Doubles and Then Vanquishes Tilden in Straight Sets in Deciding Match To-day

Auteuil, France, July 30.—America's campaign to recapture the Davis Cup from the French failed to-day when Henri Cochet defeated William T. Tilden in the deciding match of the series in straight sets by scores of 9-7, 8-6, 6-4.

This gave the French three out of the four matches played.

Cochet proved the backbone of the French team. After Lacoste had lost to Tilden in the opening singles Cochet defeated Hennessy. Cochet paired with Borotra in the doubles and again was on the victorious side. To-day he squashed Hilden and looms up as a greater star than Lacoste.

In the doubles yesterday Cochet and Borotra defeated Tilden and Francis T. Hunter 6-4, 6-8, 7-5, 4-6, 6-2, after a very close and exciting encounter.

Canada's New Hero

PERCY WILLIAMS

Born in Vancouver, May 19, 1908, Williams showed class as a sprinter from his earliest school days. In high school he was taken in hand by E. L. Yeo, Vancouver sport trainer, who trained him for the inter-high school championship team in 1924. An attack of rheumatism prevented his going through for the team for two years. He came back in 1926 and won the local high school sprint laurels for the 100-yard and 220-yard distances in that year. In 1927 he set a new Canadian school record for the 100 yards in ten seconds flat against George Clark, Washington University. This year he concentrated on the 220-yard distance and set a new Canadian high school mark of twenty-two seconds flat.

Bob Grantner, track coach for the University of British Columbia, took Williams in hand in 1926 and improved his style considerably. When it was proposed to send Williams to the Dominion trials in 1927, funds were lacking and it looked for a while as if the Vancouver boy would miss his chance to compete at Toronto. Finally Bob Brown, of the Vancouver Athletic Club, advanced the funds and it was under Brown's colors that Williams presented himself. Arriving in Toronto a day before the trials, Williams showed effects of the journey and change of climate. He finished second. There were too many entries and a coin was tossed to see which of the qualifiers should go to the Olympiad. Williams lost. He returned to Vancouver and started in almost at once to train for this year's events.

HIS FORM GREATLY IMPROVES

Early this year he showed greatly improved form. He won the Washington State high school sprint at Seattle in 9 9-10 seconds. He also ran anchor on the high school of commerce relay team in the Washington State scholastic. Later in May he won easily the Greater Vancouver High School sprints for 100 yards and 220 yards. In the latter he set a new Canadian scholastic mark of twenty-two seconds flat.

Williams extended his fame beyond his home circles by equaling the world mark for the 100-metre run of 10 3-5 seconds. This was at the provincial Olympic trials in Vancouver. But this did not quite eliminate the difficulty of raising funds to send him to the Canadian finals in Hamilton. A fund was raised by public subscription through a local newspaper to send Williams and the New Westminster lacrosse team East for the trials. Bob Grainger, Williams's trainer, also had to raise a fund to pay his way.

Williams justified all hopes in him by equaling the world record again for the 100 metres and also won the 220 metres at Hamilton. He won the 100 metres again at Amsterdam.

NEW SOFTBALL BODY FORMED

Percy Payne Elected President of British Columbia Softball Association

On Saturday night the British Columbia Softball Association was organized with Percy Payne of Victoria as the first president. Dr. A. Poyntz, also of this city, was elected secretary-treasurer of the new body.

Other officers elected were as follows: First vice-president, A. V. Amos, Vancouver; second vice-president, A. J. Ramer, New Westminster; executive members, E. Stock, Victoria; E. Dickenson, New Westminster, and S. Hawksley, Vancouver.

The new organization has adopted the rules of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association with a few changes. Arrangements have been made for the first British Columbia play-offs.

The play-off dates are as follows:

August 17—Westminster vs. Vancouver, at Vancouver.

August 20—Vancouver vs. New Westminster, at New Westminster.

If necessary the third game will be played on August 22.

August 25—Victoria vs. mainland champions, at Victoria.

September 3—Victoria vs. mainland champions, at Vancouver or New Westminster.

BUD HOCKING FEATURES PLAY BY DOUBLE WIN

Captures Open and Handicap Titles in Kingston Street Tennis Tourney

Performs in Impressive Manner; Miss Kenning Wins Ladies' Singles

Yesterday's play brought to an end of the scratch and handicap tournament of the Kingston Street Tennis Club. The good weather and the fine condition of the courts produced some of the best play of the week in the finals of the seven events.

Bud Hocking was in the limelight most of the day. The defending singles champion played three matches and emerged a victor in all of them. He won both the open and handicap singles. In the former he defeated young Bob Schwengers in four sets after dropping the first. The score of 4-6, 6-3, 7-5, 6-3 just about represented the play. Neither was at his best, but Hocking was in command of the situation most of the way.

MORE IMPRESSIVE

The champion's performance in the handicap event was even more impressive. After trounoing Ivan Temple 6-2, 6-0 in the semi-final, he went on to defeat Cliff Hodgson 7-5, 6-3 for the championship.

Keen play also marked the ladies' events, particularly in the open singles. In this event Mrs. Robertson provided a bit of a surprise by beating Miss Severs in the morning, but later lost in the final to Miss Kenning, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, after a close match.

A SECOND WIN

Miss Kenning gained her second win of the day in the mixed doubles final with Col. Appleton. Miss Greenwood and Clayton were their victims to the tune of 7-5, 6-4.

Miss Harris won the handicap singles from Miss Kenning 6-4, 6-4, while Miss Hickey and Miss Marquart annexed the ladies' double title.

Hole and Temple won the men's doubles event from Quayle and Barnes by a walkover.

The final results were:

MEN'S HANDICAP SINGLES
(Semi-final)

Hocking (minus 40) defeated Temple (minus 30½), 6-2, 6-0.
(Final)

Hocking (minus 40) defeated Hodgson (minus 30½), 6-3, 7-5.

Semi-finals Are Reached in Cup Play at Uplands

The second round of the Hibben-Bone Trophy competition was completed on Saturday. The results were as follows:

Savident and Blashfield defeated Findlay and Sheret, ¾ up.

Radford and Randall defeated Poulis and Pearce, ½ up.

Naden and Oddy defeated Brown and Elliott, 5¼ up.

Falk and Bone defeated Edmonds and Cameron, 1 up.

Yankee Craft Shot Full of Holes and May Sink Any Time

Cleveland Indians Riddle World's Champions 24-6; Most Humiliating Defeat Suffered by Yankees in Three Years; Indians Bat Around Twice in First and Second Innings; Philadelphia Athletics Coming Up Fast on Leaders

Something has struck the proud Yankee craft, bow, stern and amidships. She is still afloat, but leaking badly and may sink at any minute.

A month ago the champions were leading the American League by more than a dozen games. Taking heart at this unexpected collapse upon the part of the Yanks, the Philadelphia Athletics are coming on at a whirlwind pace and again have hopes of realizing Connie Mack's ambition of piloting another league pennant winner.

HUMILIATING DEFEAT

At Cleveland yesterday the Yanks suffered the most humiliating defeat they have taken since 1925 when they ended the season in seventh place. They were swamped 24 to 6 in the wildest major league game of the year. The Indians started out with nine runs in the first inning, decided that would not be enough and scored eight more in the second. By this time the Indians were more tired of running the bases than the Yanks were of chasing singles that popped all over the field. One run was the best the Indians could do in the third and they waited until the sixth inning to score the last six.

Led by Johnny Hoddap and Luke Sewell, with five hits each, the Indians in the first inning drove George Pipgras from the mound with nine runs. They continued the assault against Wiley Moore, in the second and hung up eight more. Thomas, who followed Moore, had barely got settled when he was yanked by Johnson, who held the Redmen until the sixth, when another bombardment netted six runs. Archie Campbell kept them from scoring further.

The Indians pounded out 27 hits and batted around twice in each of the first two innings.

The Athletics won again at St. Louis, taking over the Browns for the seventh straight time, 8 to 3.

After losing six straight, the Boston Red Sox piled into Stoner for four runs in the second inning, beating Detroit 5 to 2.

After losing their seventh straight, the Chicago White Sox came back to beat the Washington Senators in the last half of a doubleheader. Lyons was ineffective in the opener and the Senators pounded out an 8 to 3 victory. Adkins was in good form in the second and the Sox ended their long losing streak with a 5 to 1 victory.

In the National League, the Cincinnati Reds strengthened their hold on second place by beating Brooklyn 6 to 5.

The Giants and Chicago Cubs fought each other to a standstill in a doubleheader at the Polo Grounds. The Giants took the first game, 4 to 3 in ten innings. Guy Bush outpitched Aldridge in the second game and the Cubs came out on the long end of a 3 to 1 score.

Yesterday's results were:

Billion Dollars Is Bet Annually In Great Britain

London, July 30.—Evidence advanced before the House of Commons select committee on estimates showed the 3½ per cent betting tax was unpaid on more than half of the estimated total betting turnover. The annual betting in British was estimated at $1,000,000,000, according to a report being issued.

HARRISON SURE OF FIRST RANK

Californian Likely to Top List on P.N.W. Tennis; Wins at Vancouver

Vancouver, July 30—Outspeeding the veteran tennis player, Clarence Griffin of San Francisco, in the finals of the Western Canada tennis championships at the Vancouver Club on Saturday afternoon, Bradshaw Harrison, late of Tacoma and San Francisco won the major prize in the men's singles and incidentally created a record that will take some beating, by winning his fifth straight tournament of the season. Harrison did the trick after losing the first at 7-9.

Harrison started off the tournament season by winning the B.C. clay court event at Jericho. He then mixed with the present battery of Californians in the Oregon State and carried off the main event, following suit at the P.N.W. at Tacoma and the Washington State the following week. He has thus created a record which, without the shadow of a doubt will give him the No. 1 ranking in the Pacific Northwest this year. Ethel Burkhardt beat her teammate Josephine Cruickshank in the final of the ladies' singles, Mrs. Gross and Marion Hunt beat Misses Burkhardt and Cruickshank in the final of the doubles. Harrison and Lockwood downed Griffin and Turenne in five hard sets and the mixed doubles title went to Miss Cruickshank and Seller who triumphed over Mrs. Gross and Almquist. Joe Coughlin won the junior men's final against Bob Forbes, both of San Francisco.

The results were:

MEN'S SINGLES

Bradshaw Harrison, Tacoma and San Francisco, beat C. J. "Peck" Griffin, 7-9, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

MEN'S DOUBLES

Harrison and Lockwood, Tacoma and San Francisco beat Griffin, San Francisco and Turenne, Seattle, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, 5-7, 6-2.

LADIES' SINGLES

Ethel Burkhardt, San Francisco beat Josephine Cruickshank, San Francisco, 6-4, 6-3.

LADIES' DOUBLES

Golda Meyer Gross and Marion Hunt beat Ethel Burkhardt and Josephine Cruickshank, all of San Francisco, 6-3, 8-6.

MIXED DOUBLES

Josephine Cruickshank and Bobby Seller, San Francisco, beat Mrs. Gross, San Francisco and Stan Almquist, Tacoma and San Francisco, 6-0, 8-6.

JUNIOR MEN'S SINGLES

Joe Coughlin, San Farncisco beat Bob Forbes, San Francisco, 6-1, 7-5.

JUNIOR LADIES' SINGLES

Marion Hunt, San Francisco, beat Elizabeth Weil, Menlo Park, Cal., 6-2, 6-2.

BOYS UNDER 17

W. Davies beat R. Dafoe, 6-2, 2-6, 6-4.

VETERANS' SINGLES

J. J. Maw, Point Grey, beat E. J. H. Cardinall, Vancouver, 6-3, 6-1.

VETERANS' DOUBLES

Milne and Farquhar vs. May and Cardinall (postponed).

DIEGEL BEATS OLD MAN PAR TO WIN TITLE

Spectacular Round of 68 Gives Him Canadian Golf Title For Third Time

Compston, Hagen and Smith Tied For Second Place, One Stroke Behind

Toronto, July 30.—Vanquishing a field which included most of the world's greatest golfers, Leo Diegel, Mount Vernon, N.Y., professional, Saturday won the Canadian open golf championship over the Rosedale Golf Club course for the third time in five years.

A spectacular round of 68 for the fourth 18 holes round of the 72-hole test gave Diegel the title with a score of 282, six under par, to the 284 with which Walter Hagen of New York, British open champion; Archie Compston of Great Britain and Donald Smith of Great Neck, L.I., tied for second place.

HAS "BAD" ROUND

Practically overlooked as a champion possibility when he was three strokes behind the leader, Hagen, at the end of the third round, Diegel came from behind in the afternoon with his three under par round to win. "Sir Walter," who has won every open championship of note except the Canadian, lost his chance for the title in the fourth 18, when he had the "bad" round he had feared and expected, a 73.

"Just beating old man par was what did it," Diegel said when he was told he could not be beaten by the players yet to finish. "The Canadian seems to be the only title Hagen cannot win and the only one I can."

The Mount Vernon pro won the title for the first time in 1924 with 285 strokes, and retained it the next year with a score ten strokes higher. Several have won the title twice, but none but Diegel has annexed it the third time. His 282 of Saturday was bettered only once before in a Canadian open, J. Douglas Edgar of Atlanta won it in 1919 with 278.

The first 16 with their scores for the four rounds and their totals follow:

Archie Compston, Great Britain, 73-67-72-72—284.

MacDonald Smith, Great Neck, L.I., 69-74-74-67—284.

Walter Hagen, New York, 67-70-72-73—284.

Al Watrous, Grand Rapids, Mich, 75-73-69-69—286.

Willie MacFarlane, Tuckahoe, N.Y., 72-70-72-75—289.

Gene Quitting Due to Dearth Of Challengers

New York, July 30.—The heavyweight division of the fistic world, dominated more than ever now by Gene Tunney, may lose its ruler within the next few days.

Through friends in Greenwich, Conn., where the heavyweight champion has been in semi-seclusion since he crushed Tom Heeney, New Zealand challenger, in the Yankee Stadium, Thursday night, Gene said he would make an announcement "of the greatest importance," in New York, probably to-day.

Although Tunney could not be reached directly, the Associated Press learned that the announcement will be one of retirement from the ring. Gene feels that he has conquered all before him in his ring, has piled up all the wealth he can ever need, and faces a long period of inactivity through dearth of qualified challengers.

THE MARRIAGE QUESTION

No mention of contemplated marriage will be made in the announcement, it was learned, although friends of the titleholder are aware that Gene considers entering matrimony after completing his walking trip abroad with Thornton Wilder, the novelist. Tunney will sail for Europe and then hike through Germany, August 16.

Postponement of the announcement, friends say, was made to permit recognition by the general sporting public of Tunney as a great champion. The titleholder believes that he stamped himself not only a masterful boxer but a fighting ruler of the "killer type," in his technical knockout victory over the New Zealand challenger.

CAPITALS WIN ISLAND BALL HONORS

while he struck out five. Robinson, who worked for Duncan allowed fifteen hits and breezed four.

Norm Forbes gave the fans a thrill in the third inning when he poled out a home run with one man on the sacks. It was one of the cleanest drives seen in the park this season.

Wachter and More led the Victoria hitters each with three hits out of four trips to the plate. Bonsel hit well for Duncan with three safeties out of four times at bat.

Holding Duncan to three scattered hits Norm Forbes pitched the Capitals to a 5-1 victory in the evening game.

Duncan scored their lone run in the first inning on an error and a single. The Capitals checked in one in the first, two in the second, one in the third and one in the seventh.

Forbes struck out ten while Jamieson, the Duncan twirler, allowed nine hits and struck out one.

Cummins led the Victoria hitters with three out of four while none of the Duncan hitters succeeded in getting more than one safe hit.

At a table in a restaurant a diner said to another on the opposite side of the table, "I beg pardon, sir, but will you kindly pass me the salt-cellar?"

"Humph!" said the other, insolently, "do you take me for the waiter?"

The first diner made no reply, but calmly called, "Waiter!"

The waiter came up, bowing, and asked him what he desired.

"Nothing," said that gentleman, "except to apologize to you. It seems that I took this man for you."

"A girl is happy in a new evening frock," says a fashion expert.

"Despite the fact that there's not much of her in it."

Bloemfontein, Union of South Africa, July 30.—The touring New Zealand All Blacks, famous Rugby football team Saturday defeated the Orange Free State team 15 to 11.

FIELDING MEETS LAKE NEXT WEEK

Promising Local Fighter to Take on Flashy Sailor of H.M.S. Durban

Joe Bayley has been successful in securing the services of Stoker Percy Lake, of H.M.S. Durban, for a ten-round contest at 130 pounds with Tommy Fielding, the local crack, on Saturday, August 11.

This will be good news for the fans who have been anxious to see the local boy in action against a top-notcher. The sailor, who appeared here some weeks ago, created a fine impression by his remarkable speed and cleverness and it is predicted that he will give the local boy a real tussle for the decision.

CUNNINGHAM SIGNED

San Francisco, July 30.—William Cunningham, former Major and Coast League outfielder, has been signed by the Seattle Indians and was in uniform with the team Saturday. He is a right hander with long experience and played with Seattle seven years ago, later going to the New York Giants and the Boston Braves. This season he played in the Western League and lately became a free agent.

TENNIS TALKS

By GEORGE M. LOTT, JR.

I believe that all true lovers of tennis really dread the possibility of tennis becoming professionalized. For them the spirit of the game would be destroyed. It would become a cold-blooded money-making proposition and would cease to be known as a "gentleman's game."

By this, I do not mean to cast any reflections upon the present-day professionals. They are a fine group of men who play the game with the spirit it should be played.

However, should professionalism grow to a larger scale, there would creep in, here and there, certain undesirable elements that would tend to destroy the game and the wonderful sportsmanship with which it is played among the present and past amateurs.

The professional scare has died down at present and after the outcome of the recent Pyle exhibitions there seems to be little danger of any of the leading players turning pro. And professional tennis could not be put on a paying basis unless at least twenty-five of the leading players were in it.

For the present, professional tennis is regarded by the amateur very skeptically from both a pecuniary point of view as well as from the standpoint of his natural love of the game. Above all, he does not want to destroy the wonderful characteristics of the game. For this reason, if for none other, I do not believe that professional tennis will ever gain a foothold in the United States.

Make this two weeks' test and note the difference

Constipation must not be neglected. Start a two weeks' test now. Order a package of Post's Bran Flakes from your grocer.

Start by eating a dish of Post's Bran Flakes for breakfast. Eat it as a cereal with milk or cream. You will like it as well as any cereal you ever tasted.

Do this every day for two weeks. We predict you will find a real difference in the way you feel, and that you have been "regular" all the time.

But don't stop at the end of two weeks. Eat Post's Bran Flakes every morning for health and regularity.

Post's Bran Flakes is sold by all grocers in a wax-wrapped package. Ready to eat.

It is dangerous to experiment with patent medicines and drug laxatives. They bring only temporary relief and may make matters much worse. Ordinary cases of constipation brought about by too little roughage in the diet should yield to Post's Bran Flakes. If your case is abnormal, don't experiment. Consult a competent physician.

ABOVE all, beware of constipation. You may be a victim and yet not be aware of it. The terrible consequences of habitual faulty elimination may not appear immediately. Day after day you may go on allowing the system to absorb body poisons until the day of reckoning.

Doctors know this. Doctors say that sufficient roughage in your diet will guard against the danger of constipation. If you will eat Post's Bran Flakes regularly you will get just that necessary roughage. You'll please your palate, too, because of the appetizing flavor in each golden, crisp-toasted flake.

Radio Enables the Blind To Read Ordinary Print

The "Visagraph" is pictured here, with Tiovo Laminan, blind college student, making use of it. Standing is the inventor of the device, Robert E. Naumburg

Winchester, Mass., July 30.—Radio comes to the aid of the blind in a new device, the "Visagraph," perfected here by Robert E. Naumburg, a Massachusetts Institute of Technology graduate.

The "Visagraph" makes it possible for blind persons to read ordinary books. Heretofore they have had to depend on the Braille system of raised letters.

The photo-electric cell, which makes television and several other electrical marvels possible, is part of the equipment for Naumburg's device.

The reader uses a "feeler," somewhat like a pencil, to cover the printed page. An electric signal tells the reader whether he is on black or white. A guide consisting of several grooves denotes the top, middle, or bottom of the black letters.

The photo-electric cell is mounted on a pantagraph, which in effect magnifies the size of letters four times.

Signals from the device, and the reader's knowledge of the "feeler's" position with respect to the printed lines, enable him to reconstruct mentally the letters, words, or sentences he is tracing.

Tiovo Laminan, a blind student at Tufts College, Medford, Mass., worked with Naumburg on the invention. Laminan readily mastered the reading method.

The Boston Committee for the Blind also co-operated with Naumburg, and officials of the committee believe the device in every way practical. With the "Visagraph" arranged to transmit its signals to the fingers through buzzer vibrations rather than earphones or loud speaker, it could be used by persons both blind and deaf.

CROWDS WATCH CAMERA GRIND

San Francisco Men Here Get Excellent Pictures of Victoria

While hundreds of people watched with interest T. Hines and J. Edwards, camera men of the Southern Pacific Railway Company, secured several thousand feet of excellent pictures of Victoria and vicinity Saturday and Sunday. The pictures will be used by the railroad company in connection with a series to stimulate transcontinental travel.

On the arrival of the camera men Saturday arrangements were made by George I. Warren, Publicity Commissioner, for the Princess Marguerite and the Princess Patricia to be filmed as they arrived at the harbor crowded with passengers. Princess Patricia brought 800 members of the U.S. Bar Association. By the courtesy of the Canadian Pacific Railway parorama pictures embracing the Parliament Buildings, the Causeway and the Empress Hotel were taken. There were launches and yachts in the harbor, while one yacht with sails all set provided a perfect touch to the picture. Douglas and Yates Streets with policemen on point duty, children feeding the swans at Beacon Hill, Victoria College and Butchart's Gardens were also filmed.

Thanks to the C.P.R. and the chief of police Victoria for co-operation given the cameramen were expressed before they left the city.

Happy Valley

Happy Valley, July 28.—William Anderson of Crockett, California, is holidaying with his cousins, John and Jim Scoular.

Mrs. J. E. Colwyn Hebden has returned from a visit to Seattle, Wash.

The August meeting of the Luxton and Happy Valley Women's Institute will be held at the home of Mrs. J. McLeod Thursday afternoon, July 2, at 2 p.m. It is hoped for a good attendance as final details are to be arranged with referenc to exhibit at Willows Fair latter part of August. Committees also will be formed and catering arrangements made for the Metchosin Farmers' Institute fair to be held in Luxton Hall early in September.

Mrs. A. Hankin, who has been in Victoria for some months, has returned home. Miss V. M. Dyer of Victoria is a week-end guest of her sister, Mrs. Hankin.

Mrs. J. McLeod and family have returned from a pleasant holiday spent at Mill Bay.

Masters George and John Creighton of Vancouver are holidaying at "Mandalay," the guest of their aunt, Mrs. Robert Brown.

A christening ceremony took place at St. John's Church, Colwood, at 3.30 p.m. Sunday, July 29, the Rev. H. B. Allen conducting the ceremony. The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hankin was christened Wilfred Francis. The god parents were Miss V. M. Dyer of Victoria, C. E. Whitney-Griffiths of Metchosin and J. O'Connor of Victoria (the latter standing proxy for Wilfred G. Dyer). Two children of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Oliver also were christened, the names chosen being John and Richard. Mrs. Jas. Lowe, Frank Goodsell and R. F. Oliver acted as godparents.

Those Daguerreotypes

On one of these restless, rainy days, search through your old packing trunks. Look over your old daguerreotypes and photographs. You may find a black silhouette in oval shape of some good-looking ancester. Place a pair of under bedroom oval side lights of ivory outlined with black. Tiny reproductions of oval frames may be bought for them and that source of many important things, the ten cent store, may reveal some tiny oblong ones from Denmark.

Births, Marriages, Deaths

BORN

WILLS—At the Beachcroft Nursing Home, on July 29, to Mr. and Mrs. Archie Wills, 1270 Dallas Road, a daughter.

WASSON—At St. Joseph's Hospital, Sunday, July 29, 1928, to Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Wasson, a daughter.

PETERS—To Mr. and Mrs. H. Peters of Saanich, on July 28, at Jubilee Hospital, a daughter.

STINSON—On July 29, at the Royal Jubilee Hospital, to Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Stinson, a son.

DIED

PROVAN—On July 28, there passed away at an early hour at the family residence, 3425 Maplewood Road, Saanich, after a lingering illness, Mrs. Margaret Henderson Provan, beloved wife of David Provan. The late Mrs. Provan was a native of Airdrie, Scotland, aged 61 years, and a resident of this city for the past eight years. She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, four sons, James Provan, William Provan, David Provan and Alex. Provan; three daughters, Mrs. Smith of this city, Mrs. Price of Seattle and Miss Peggy Provan; also six grandchildren.

The remains are resting at the Thomson Funeral Home, 1625 Quadra Street, from where the funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, when the Rev. J. G. G. Bompas will conduct the service, and the remains will be laid to rest in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

Driving By Compass

You may sometimes call your car "the old boat." But it probably never occurred to you to drive by compass.

However, there are lands where the navigation of an automobile by compass may be necessary. Australia, South Africa and South America have great areas with long dirt roads, unfenced, reaching for miles without a turn. Sometimes the roads are little more than wagon ruts, and the driver who goes off the road at night may bump across the prairie for a mile or more before realizing that he has lost his course.

Thus, Dodge Brothers, doing an international business on all six continents, is providing foreign dealers with souvenir compass watch fobs as gifts for purchasers.

"These were especially designed for countries where long straight roads prevail and where there are few landmarks," says a circular sent out with the fobs. "Also where, when driving at night, once you leave the road and find it again, frequently you are heading in the wrong direction."

A Wonderful Speech Maker

Lord Birkenhead is noted for his racy speeches and has again achieved prominence. He seems to be in better form than ever, and it is declared to be untrue that the Prime Minister is annoyed by the liveliness of some of his public utterances. They may occasionally lapse into personalities, but there is always the saving grace of wit and humor, so that even their lordships of the "other place" could not help enjoying the discomfiture of Lord Buckmaster when he was being severely trounced by the versatile Secretary of State for India. That acrimonious duel between Lord Birkenhead and Lord Buckmaster in the House of Lords debate on the Liquor Bill was the feature of Lord Birkenhead's oratorical output of the week. Since then Lord Buckmaster has been endeavoring to defend his use of the term "slum pubs" which led to Lord Birkenhead's banter about the horrors Lord Buckmaster had experienced during the walk through the slums, in seeing at the end of one street two public houses opposite each other, and both full. The remark about this being an isolated episode in Lord Buckmaster's otherwise uneventful life created infinite amusement. Lord Birkenhead was in equally good form at the dinner which signalized the visit of British overseas golfers to the heart of the Empire. It was one of the jolliest functions of the season, and before it ended Lord Birkenhead offered to play any golfing guest so long as the handicap of a stroke and a half a hole with three bisques was conceded. There were any number of characteristic phrases in Lord Birkenhead's speech. For example, "I do not push my pretensions at golf to an acutely competitive point," and "I have worked out a most carefully reasoned and conscientious handicap for myself." Lord Riddell had a lot of fun with Lord Birkenhead in a speech full of lively badinage, but nothing came of the proposed golfing challenge.

A FAMOUS LANDMARK

A notable London landmark—the famous Astor House on Victoria Embankment—has passed into the possession of the Society of Incorporated Accountants. An assurance company acquired the building in 1922, but are moving to new premises elsewhere. Astor House will then be known as Incorporated Accountants' Hall. One of the most ornate buildings in London, it was built in 1894-5 by the late Lord Astor at a cost of £250,000, to the design of Sir J. L. Pearson, R.A., and is full of beautiful craftsmanship. The building may indeed be described as a casket built entirely of Portland stone. The weather vane was intended by Lord Astor to be a representation in beaten copper of the caravel in which Columbus discovered America. The staircase hall is panelled in oak, and has a chimneypiece in pavonazetto marble. The floor is of marble, jasper, porphyry and onyx. The staircase rises in three flights to the gallery on the first floor, and from balustrading to treads is carved in solid mahogany. Seven beautiful carved wood figures on the newel posts, representing the chief figures in Dumas' "Three Musketeers," were the work of J. Nicholls. He insisted upon their being kept in his bedroom before his eyes, and they were not delivered until he died. The arcading surrounding the gallery has ten pillars of solid ebony, specially imported and now irreplacable. In what was Lord Astor's dining-room and office, too, the walls are elaborately panelled in irreplacable pencilled cedar, while the inside of the mahogany entrance door to the great hall has a carved head and nine decorative panels in silver gilt by the late Sir George Frampton, R.A. "It is well that this unique example of British art and craft is to be preserved," says J. R. Willis Alexander, the Parliamentary Secretary to the Society of Accountants, "and by a professional society which is able to maintain the building in a manner befitting its character and design."

OBITUARY

Private funeral services were held today over the remains of the late Mrs. Margaret B. Wyman, who passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. J. Wasson, 711 Pemberton Road, on Saturday in her ninetieth year.

The remains of the late William Hordern, who passed away at the Jubilee Hospital on Saturday, were forwarded by the B.C. Funeral Chapel this afternoon to Saskatchewan for interment.

The funeral of Patrick Callan took place this morning, the cortege leaving the Sands Funeral Chapel at 8.50 o'clock and proceeding to St. Andrew's Cathedral where Rev. Father Evans conducted mass. Interment was made in Ross Bay cemetery. The pallbearers were: M. Lawless, A. Marston, L. Callan and E. Callan.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Margaret Henderson Provan, who passed away at the family residence, 3425 Maplewood Road, Saanich, at an early hour Saturday morning, has been arranged to take place to-morrow afternoon. Funeral service will be held at the Thomson Funeral Home, 1625 Quadra Street, at 2 o'clock, when the Rev. J. G. G. Bompas will conduct the services, and the remains will be laid to rest in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

DIED AT TORONTO

Toronto, July 30 — Mrs. Flora McDonald, 102 years old, died at her home here last night. She had been confined to her bed for only two weeks. She is survived by one daughter, eight grandchildren and twelve great-grandchildren.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Charged with driving his automobile to the common danger on Government Street on July 20, W. Pistell was fined $20 in the City Police Court this morning. He pleaded guilty to the charge.

Percy Watson, advertisement manager of The Morning Post, of London, will arrive in Canada next month. Mr. Watson's purpose in coming to this country is to make a study of Canadian advertising.

Sidney Sangster appeared in the City Police Court this morning to answer a charge of assaulting J. H. Smith on July 27. The accused pleaded not guilty through counsel, R. C. Lowe, and was remanded until Thursday.

For failing to produce his driver's license upon the request of a police constable, C. R. Pears was fined $5 in the City Police Court this morning. Arthur Winters was fined $5 on a similiar charge.

The annual basket picnic of the Barbers' Union Local 372 will be held at Elk Lake on Wednesday, August 1. The bus for the outing will leave the Blue Line Station at 9.45 a.m., and all barber shops in the city will be closed for the day.

Erection of a four-room frame stucco bungalow at 1765 Heatlain Street has been authorized by Building Inspector James Barr in a permit issued on Saturday to Mrs. C. Whin. The residence will cost $2,300, and will be constructed by R. Hetherington.

Mollie and Betty Llewellyn, students of Sunshine Lodge College, whose names were omitted from the recent pass list for the high school entrance examinations, were successful in these tests, passing with totals of 388 and 310 respectively.

Charged with keeping liquor for sale at premises on Johnson Street, Stella Bridges was fined $400 in the City Police Court this morning. In default accused was ordered to serve four months' imprisonment. She pleaded not guilty through counsel, T. M. Miller.

Dr. Roncanvietri and Mrs. Roncanvietri will arrive in Victoria from Seattle to-morrow for fishing at Campbell River and other spots on the Island. Arrangements for reservations and the hire of car for ten days were made by Dr. Roncanvietri by telephone from Seattle with George I. Warren, publicity commissioner.

Damages totaling $705.50 were awarded by Judge P. S. Lampman in judgement handed down last week to Frederick Holmes and Fanny Evelyn Holmes, plaintiffs, in a county court action against the Veterans' Sightseeing and Transportation Company. A counter claim was dismissed. R. C. Lowe appeared for the plaintiffs. Alexis Martin was counsel for the defendant company. The action arose out of an automobile collision on September 18, 1927.

Gordon M. Campbell, B.C.L., M.C. B.A., formerly associated with the legal firm of Bodwell & Lawson of Victoria, has now entered into the practice of law at Port Alberni, where he will be permanently located. Mr. Campbell holds the highest degree of law, that of Bachelor of Civil of Law, which was awarded to him shortly after his return from overseas. He is a son of Rev. Major Campbell of Victoria, whose four sons distinguished themselves in the late war, by joining as privates and all winning commissions on the field, all being wounded and three of them twice decorated. Gordon Campbell served as a pilot in the Royal Air Force during the greater part of the war.

Appreciation of the co-operation of Brigadier-General Money of Qualicum Beach Hotel with the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau was voiced by C. P. Hill at a meeting of directors of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau to-day. Mr. Hill mentioned the hospitality extended by General Money to delegates to the Associated Boards of Trade of Vancouver Island convention at Qualicum. He also went to a great deal of trouble to see that guests secured a good impression of Vancouver Island, and was ever ready to see that persons sent to Qualicum by the bureau, secured good fishing and spent an enjoyable time, said Mr. Hill. The proposed Cowichan flume was briefly referred to by Mr. Hill. If the plan were carried out the fishing of the district was threatened, he said.

PUBLICITY DRIVE IN CALGARY

Would Prove Profitable to Victoria, Bureau Director Says

Island Featured in Full Page United States Newspaper Articles

Suggestions that Victoria and Island make an early start to turn tourist travel this way from Alberta were offered by R. H. B. Ker at the meeting of the directors of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau this afternoon. Mr. Ker saw extensive business in Alberta if Victoria sought it vigorously and suggested the establishment of Victoria office in Calgary after a representative who knew Calgary well had been posted on Victoria and Island and its attractions.

FEATURE VICTORIA

Victoria had been successful in securing an unusually large amount of publicity recently, the commissioner reported. He drew attention to a full page in The Seattle Post Intelligencer, a page in The Seattle Times and two pages in The Portland Oregonian.

Victoria Advertisements in English Newspapers Bid For Industries

Bids for the establishment of English factories for Victoria are being made through a series of advertisements in English newspapers it was reported at a meeting of the directors of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau to-day.

Advertisements appearing in daily papers in various towns draw attention to possibilities for factories here, the particular instance before the directors being a bid in a Northampton newspaper to boot and shoe manufacturers in that town to establish factories here.

NEW PLANE CUTS RECORD

Flew to Vancouver in Thirty-five Minutes Saturday

The giant trimotored plane on the Victoria-Vancouver-Seattle run slipped five minutes off the forty and sailed to Vancouver in thirty-five minutes on Saturday, R. H. B. Ker stated at the meeting of the directors of the Publicity Bureau this afternoon.

The possibilities of the service were discussed and the advertising value was also mentioned. Efforts will be made to have moving pictures taken for a news reel, the international angle of the passenger service being drawn attention to as making it a picture news item of interest to cities in both Canada and the United States.

Canadian Manager Protests Strongly Against Favoritism

Amsterdam, July 30—M. M. Robinson of Hamilton, manager of the Canadian athletes at the Olympio Games, protested strongly against the United States athletes being permitted to use the stadium track for practice last week while all other entrants, including the Canadians, were barred from the stadium, it is learned. With the games now under way, it is likely nothing further will be heard of the matter, but Mr. Robinson said:

"It was laid down that none of the competitors would be allowed on the stadium track previous to the games. When it was found the American sprinters had been allowed on the track, we appealed to the Dutch Olympic Committee, but they absolutely refused to grant the Canadians the same privilege.

"The United States sprinters entered the games with an advantage over their competitors. It may be smart on their part, but it is not sporting."

BUS ROUTES USE TERMINAL

Saanich Systems Concentrated at Broughton Street

Concentration of Saanich bus system at the Broughton Street bus terminal commenced this morning, and produced a great increase in traffic activity in the surrounding business district.

Throughout the morning there was a constant succession of busses arriving from and departing for all parts of Saanich, the waiting rooms and platforms being thronged with patrons of the consolidated bus system.

The organization worked with remarkable smoothness. Arriving busses entered the loading reserve from Broughton Street and departed by Courtney Street.

FERRIES FIND TRAVEL BRISK

Carrying Capacity Loads Despite Increase in Services

Although the new Edmonds-Victoria ferry has stepped into the field, ferries carrying automobiles and auto passengers are doing more business than ever before it was reported at a meeting of directors of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau this afternoon.

Nine cars failed to find room on the Bellingham ferry last Sunday. Three times last week the waiting line of cars was greater than the accommodation. The Puget Sound Navigation Company are doing excellent business. Tourist traffic is growing to the extent where there is brick business offering for all the services operating.

TEACHERS HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC

Many keenly-contested and amusing sports events were enjoyed by the students and faculty of the Provincial Summer School for Teachers at their annual picnic at The Chalet, Deep Cove, Saturday.

In the field events the health class carried off the majority of the races and won the grand aggregate prize. Other competitions of interest were nail driving contests for the faculty, a comic swimming race in which the contestants had to perform a fancy dive, put on a pair of pyjamas and return to the starting point, and a contest in table decoration, which was won by the primary class.

About 300 students attended the outing and drove to the picnic ground in two large tallyhos as well as several private cars.

The winners of the various contests were:

Skipping race, ladies—Mildred Moore.

Potato race, ladies—E. Thompson.

Balloon race, ladies—E. Kay.

Three-legged race, ladies—L. C. Smith and C. Cruickshanks.

Relay race, ladies—Physical education class.

KIWANIS CLUB SPONSORS TRIP

City of Victoria to Take Excursion Trip to Edmonds Wednesday

The first special excursion to take place from Victoria over the new steamship ferry line to Edmonds is scheduled for Wednesday afternoon, August 1. The Victoria Kiwanis Club, under whose auspices the excursion has been arranged, decided on Wednesday as being the most suitable day, in view of the fact that it is the regular half-holiday for retail stores, thereby giving sales people and others the opportunity to take advantage of the low fare which has been arranged, and to enjoy the new and interesting steamship ferry trip between Victoria and the mainland.

The excursionists will leave by the Ss. City of Victoria at 1 o'clock and arrive in Edmonds at 5. After a stay of two hours in the latter port the return journey will commence at 7 o'clock, the steamer being timed to arrive in Victoria at 11. An orchestra will render music both going and returning, and there will be dancing in the main saloon.

As only a limited number of tickets will be available, intending excursionists are advised to procure them early. Tickets may be obtained at the office of the Edmonds-Victoria Ferry Company, 916 Government Street, and at leading stores.

MRS. SUTHERLAND IS LAID AT REST

Many Pay Last Tribute at Funeral of Minister's Wife To-day

Members of the Liberal administration, members of the Government-elect, including Hon. S. F. Tolmie, and a host of close personal friends paid their last tribute of respect at the impressive funeral services held this morning over the late Lillian Margaret Sutherland, wife of Hon. W. H. Sutherland, Minister of Public Works, who passed away on Saturday morning.

The cortege left the family residence, 505 Foul Bay Road, at 10.15 a.m. and proceeded to the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes at the Willows, where Rev. Father J. R. Buckley celebrated Mass at 10.30. Mrs. C. E. Wilson sang the music throughout Mass. The casket was hidden beneath over one hundred and fifty exquisite floral tributes sent from all parts of British Columbia, eloquent testimony of the widespread sorrow at Mrs. Sutherland's passing.

The pallbearers were: Chief Justice J. A. Macdonald, Hon. J. H. King, Premier J. D. MacLean, Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Hon. A. M. Manson and Hon. E. D. Barrow.

Interment was made in Ross Bay cemetery. The arrangements were in the hands of the Sands Funeral Company.

LUMBER CHARGE TO FORE AGAIN

Recommendation For Complete Removal of Arbitrary to Be Discussed

The lumber arbitrary against manufactured lumber exported from Vancouver Island will be discussed at a meeting of the directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce called for Friday.

The question is expected to arise on the presentation of the report of delegates from the Victoria Chamber, who attended the Associated Boards of Vancouver Island convention, held at Qualicum last week. It has been before the chamber on several occasions in the last few years and a reduction announced some time ago was hailed as a step towards success.

At the Island convention complete removal of the arbitrary charge was recommended, after it was emphasized during discussion that it created a handicap for the Island mills competing with other British Columbia mills in the open market in the sale of the manufactured product.

When Shall My Child Begin?

MOTHERS everywhere are asking this question. And the obvious answer is that children should begin their study of the piano while they are young.

Authorities of wide experience say the age at which the child should begin is somewhere between five and seven. One noted authority says, "If she is six years old and normal, the answer is—now!"

This is the acquisition age—the age at which information is most actively sought and absorbed—the time when children take in things with special readiness.

Modern piano teaching is pleasant and interesting. Start your child now along this road to romance and culture with the greatest of all Canadian pianos—the Heintzman. Inspect these lovely instruments in our music rooms this week.

FIGHTING FISH BEFORE CAMERA

F. C. Badgley in charge of moving pictures for the Ottawa Government, secured remarkable picture of fishing on Vancouver Island during a visit to Qualicum and Alberni, he informed Publicity Bureau directors in a letter read to-day.

Ernie Pool, of the C.N.R. and Brigadier General Money landed fighting steelheads with the camera grinding away as the sportsmen landed their fish. Mr. Bagley said everything was in favor of good pictures. Some good lumbering pictures were also taken.

Joseph Wong, a Chinaman, operator of greenhouses, was fined $10 in the City Police Court this morning for not taking out the necessary trades license. The accused pleaded guilty to the charge through counsel, Stuart Henderson.

Leg Broken In Auto Accident

Struck down by an automobile backing to the C. and C. taxi stand, located on Government Street at 11 o'clock this morning, J. Milhone suffered a broken leg and other injuries.

He was rushed to the Jubilee Hospital by one of the company's cars and attended by Dr. Stuart Kenning.

STOCK MARKETS — FINANCIAL NEWS — GRAIN MARKETS

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Ltd.)

Winnipeg, July 30—Whaet: Market experienced another dull day with nothing of feature going on. Opening prices were about half cent lower based on the weak cables and with some buyers of Saturday liquidating. Buying power was very thin, creating a draggy market and prices declined from 2¾ to 2 cents on the extreme break. There was some scattered liquidation in the July future, and some selling credited to Chicago interests in the deferred months.

Local offerings of the new crop were extremely light, the trade preferring to wait for another week or ten days when the crop will be practically assured. This is said to be the last critical week, and while there is very little danger of any material damage from rust, there is ever the danger of frost which could easily cause a great deal of damage the next ten days. There was practically no export business over the week-end or this morning, sales being confined to a few odd lots.

The cash market was also extremely quiet, there being only a moderate demand from shippers for the low grades of which supplies are very small. All spreads were about unchanged. Under $1.20 for October wheat the market appeared to run into some resting orders which caused slight reactions and during the last hour there was scattered short covering.

The weather in Western Canada continues very favorable. There were scattered showers in Saskatchewan and Alberta while temperatures were high in the latter province. The forecast is for mostly clear and fine with somewhat lower temperatures in Saskatchewan and Alberta. Cables were due to come unchanged but Liverpool closed 1⅝ to 1¾ lower.

World shipments last week totaled 12,573,000 bushels, of which 9,671,000 cleared from North America. On passage supplies of wheat and flour showed a sharp decrease of 4,448,000 bushels. The United States visible supply of wheat increased 8,992,000 bushels for the week. Winnipeg futures closed 1⅝ to ⅝ lower, new crop months being the strongest on short covering. Canadian wheat visible decreased 4,443,000 bushels.

Coarse grains—These markets were very dull to-day with prices lower throughout the day. Demand was poor for everything, there being no export business in oats, barley or rye. Cutting of both barley and rye is expected to commence this week and hedging pressure will soon be apparent. Oats closed 2⅜ to 1⅛ lower; barley 1½ to ¾ and rye 3 cents to 1½ cents lower.

Flax—This market continues dull, draggy and featureless with a poor demand and crushers showing no interest. Closing prices 2¾ lower.

CHICAGO GRAIN

(By B.C. Bond Corporation)

Chicago, July 30—Wheat: Market was easy from the start and displayed a rather weak undertone throughout the session. Prices declined about 2 cents from Saturday's close. Support came largely from holder of bids and from shorts. Buying by the latter caused a fair rally near the close. Reports in the Southwest were favorable. Receipts were heavy with Kansas City, St. Louis and Omaha receiving 3,701 crs against 2,708 a year ago.

Visible supply reflected the heavy movement showing an increase of nearly 9,000,000 bushels for the week. Export demand was rather slow for American wheat, although sales of around 500,000 bushels of Manitobas were made. Canadian weather and crop reports were favorable with Cromwell estimating the crop of the three provinces as 479,000,000 bushels. Believe it will be hard to maintain current prices for wheat.

Corn: Wheat firmer early with July selling at 114¾, but heavy profit-taking developed on the upturns and prices later broke sharply. Local receipts were heavy at nearly 150 cars and basis was steady to 1 cent lower. Weather remains favorable for the growing crop. We still favor sales of corn.

WHITNEY LETTER

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Ltd.)

New York, July 30—Whitney, of the Wall Street Financial bureau says today:

"The definite absorption of week-end profit taking in Saturday's session points rather clearly to the outlook for this week, which is for higher prices in at least the early part before anything in the nature of a reaction is witnessed. While this may come into the picture about midweek it does not appear that anything in the nature of a liquidating movement will be set in motion and that stocks will confine their individual recessions to a limited scope which will hardly warrant the sound issues being sold out with the idea of repurchase, at least until the prices at which they closed last week are substantially bettered the early portion of this week. Month-end requirements will not be substantial enough to create any stringency in call money and the six per cent rate is about as high as can be logically expected so that little disturbance from this or any other of the market's so called outside factors is to be anticipated.

"Just so long as General Motors is available in the range of 192 to 195 continue to purchase the stock. Little trouble will be encountered this side of 200, and not much there before new high rices are recorded.

"Mathieson Alkali should publish its year's earnings at about $15 to which there should be allowances for depreciation. Continue to buy Cons. Gas under 150, Intl. Combn. between 60 and 63 and RI under 118. Cudahy is at a new high but going higher."

Hailstorm Ruins Grain in Alberta

Calgary, July 30.—Sweeping a narrow strip two to three miles wide from Black Diamond in the Turner Valley to North of Macleod, in the southern part of Alberta, Saturday night, a heavy hailstorm completely wiped out crops on a number of farms and damaged others from ten per cent to seventy-five per cent. A heavy wind accompanied the hail and flattened some grain.

Reports from High River, Vulcan and Parkland indicate the stor was heaviest at those points. Poultry and calves were killed and windows broken.

Wall Street To-day

(By B.C. Bond Corporation's Leased Wire)

New York, July 30—The evening edition of The Wall Street Journal says: Buying activity was checked by a rise in the call money rate from 5½ to 6 per cent. Banks called some $25,000,000 in loans around mid-day making the supply of money relatively small. As a matter of fact it looked at one time in the afternoon as if the call rate might go above 6 per cent but it did not.

No heavy selling developed, the higher rate for funds simply halting the upward trend without precipitating volume pressure. When it became apparent that money would probably advance, the leading industrials receded perhaps two points from the top prices which were made in the first hour, but later on managed to recover part of the initial losses. The rise in money was attributed to month-end settlements with a disposition to believe that after this had been accomplished funds would be again in supply at rate prevailing during the past week or so.

For a brief interval around noon time trading was diverted into a few of the rails, but this demonstration did not last long enough to base judgment as to whether the carrier stocks were preparing to join the market recovery. The higher-priced industrials continued to furnish most of the features of the day's activities. Montgomery Ward went into high ground acting in a manner which encouraged further buying instead of heavy profit-taking. The close was generally irregular.

Montreal Stocks

(By B.C. Bond Corporation's Direct Wire)

Montreal, July 30.—To-day's morning session was a repetition of many previous ones during the past few weeks. With no indication of an early easing of the existing credit stringency, stocks in which there is a purely local interest, moved sluggishly, special weakness being shown by newsprint issues.

The growing feeling that Abitibi may not be able to maintain the $4 dividend on the common stock caused heavy selling of the issue, both here and in New York. On the local market initial sales took place at 51. Later the price was forced down to a low of 48 and 47 in Wall Street. Covering of short lines helped to bring it back to 49½, and it closed at 49, down 2½. The preferred was also weaker, dropping 2½ to 91.

International Nickel furnished the feature on the up side, starting at 96½, reaching a high of 97½, but fell off to 96 at the close. Brazilian rose to 55½, but fell back to 54½ at the close, down ½. Montreal Power was prominent among the public utilities, rising a point to 105. Quebec Power said unchanged at 86; Power Corporation dropped a fraction at 69¼ and Winnipeg Electric was ½ higher.

Higher Call Money Eases Bond Market

New York, July 30.—The bond market opened slightly firmer to-day, but eased off at midday when call money was advanced to six per cent. and banks called about $30,000,000 in loans. Trading was in small volume.

Interest again centred on rails, which were stronger in sympathy with stocks. Dodge Brothers debenture sixes were a feature of the neglected industrial group improving on buying in expectation of successful merger with Chrysler. Irregularity of steel issues reflected weakness of steel stocks. The foreign list was steady, but Belgium 7s were under pressure.

SUGAR

New York, July 30.—While no sales were reported in the raw sugar market early today the undertone was easier and sugars were available at concessions at 1-32 cent, or on the basis of 4.11 for spot, duty paid.

In refined sugar the demand continued of a hand to mouth character. Buyers were not inclined to buy ahead, owing to the unsteady state of the raw market. Prices were unchanged at 5.55 to 5.60 for fine granulated.

HARVESTING TO COMMENCE SOON

Bumper Crop Practically Free From Blight; Men Needed to Get Grain In

Winnipeg, July 30—Present reports from districts served by the Canadian National Railways lines would indicate that Western Canada is about to commence harvesting one of the greatest crops in the history of the country. While a few local districts report showers during the last week the weather has generally been fair and warm with a result that all grains have made excellent progress towards maturity. Many districts throughout the West report rye cutting as general and a number of districts in north and central Manitoba will commence cutting barley the first week in August.

With the exception of a small area in the North Battleford Saskatchewan district which reports slight damage from hail there have been no losses from any source during last week and not withstanding that there has been excessive moisture in some districts previously reporting rains and hot weather of the last week, which created some fear that rust would develop, there does not seem to be any effects at the present time from this menace on any part of the country.

Harvesting wheat is expected to commence in Manitoba about August 12 to 15 with Saskatchewan and Alberta from five to ten days later and while interest is generally centred on the prospects of the wheat crop, the coarse grains crop also promises to exceed previous years by a large margin.

With optimism running high among the farmers throughout the country with the excellent prospects for harvesting a bumper crop, they are now considering the problem of help to handle the crop and in many districts combination harvesters are being purchased which will eliminate the hired help problem to some extent.

FRUIT PRICES EASE AS WORLD MARKET PRICES TREND LOWER

The inevitable reaction of low prices prevailing in the United States on almost all classes of produce on the prices at which British Columbia fruits may be sold is pointed out in the weekly letter of the Interior Tree Fruit and Vegetable Committee of Direction. Following are given as prices at which Washington fruits are being offered to prairie jobbers: Carman peaches, 40c and 60c; Bartlett pears, fancy, $1.35; plums, all varieties, 90c; apricots, four baskets, 85c and 90c, Suitcases, 60c; apples, wrapped, Duchess, Transparent and Gravenstein, $1 and $1.35; apples, jumble pack, 75c; California Elberta peaches, 55c.

These prices are said by committee representatives to be the result of large crops of most varieties now available. While B.C. has had good support in its fruit movement from the jobbing trade, the latter will buy only at competitive prices.

Cool weather retarded the maturity of apricots somewhat but the movement reached its peak last week. Such demoralization as existed in sundry cherry markets due to arrivals in poor condition was cleared up more than a week ago, the committee reports, and prices were re-established last Monday at $2.75 for Bings and Lamberts, with other varieties in proportion. The Okanagan crop, which is finished, amounted to approximately 50,000 crates, or about twenty-five per cent. more than the entire marketings a year ago. The Kootenay movement, estimated at 20,000 cases, is now in progress.

Although the committee has advice that many of its cherry shipments are light in pack and poor in quality, rumors that several carloads have been dumped are greatly exaggerated. These refer, it is thought, to three or four cars on which allowances were made because of poor condition through rain damage.

Reports of the United States Department of Agriculture are quoted by committee officials indicating an increase of 9.2 per cent in the potato crop there this year. The total acreage planted is 3,842,000, from which a yield of 443,640,000 bushels is anticipated. In the Kentucky district potatoes were reported as ready to be moved three weeks ago but on account of low prices growers refused to dig them.

The Lower Mainland of British Columbia has an extraordinary crop of early white potatoes, which has been running ten to twelve tons to the acre. With conditions as reported in the United States, the competition of British Columbia spuds has made itself felt in the price quoted on coast production, it is claimed.

SPEED OF TAXI IS BLAMED FOR FIVE DEATHS

Saskatoon, July 30—That the taxicab which was struck by a Canadian National Railway engine here Saturday night, when five of the taxi's passengers were killed, was traveling between thirty-five and forty miles an hour when hit by the locomotive, was the testimony of Hilda Nelson, one of the survivors, at the inquest this morning. The car was taking nine passengers down town from the Saskatoon Exhibition.

The inquiry was adjourned a week, the coroner opening it to release the bodies of the victims for burial and to hear Mrs. Nelson, a professional acrobat whose daughter, June, aged four, was killed in the crash, but who, following the tradition of her calling, will leave to-night to join the rest of her family, playing an engagement at the Regina Exhibition.

LIST OF VICTIMS

Those who lost their lives were: Baby June Nelson, acrobat; Professor H. Karsterns, sixty, of the Saskatoon Lutheran College; Steve Zuba, address unknown; Hans Hartig, sixteen, student at the Saskatoon Lutheran College, and a man of whom nothing is known.

Adam Hopfinger, driver of the taxi, is expected to recover. His wife is in a serious condition. Gilbert Morrison, another taxi passenger, has several bad cuts, while C. T. Burns, C.N.R. employee, who was on the front of the engine, has a broken leg.

SECOND CRASH

Another car traveling behind Hopfinker's crashed into the engine after the first accident and was damaged, but none of its occupants was injured.

Here's Why Studios in East Use W And Western Ones K as Call Letters

Origin of the call-letter system for radio has interested many fans, judging from inquiries received by the Department of Commerce.

When radio was in its infancy the department assigned "K" as a call letter for the Pacific Coast stations and "W" for the Eastern stations. After the opening of the Panama Canal this was discontinued, but when broadcasting started the practice was resumed.

KDKA at Pittsburgh is an exception, being the first broadcasting station in the world for entertainment. It was permitted to retain its original call for traditional reasons when the Department of Commerce started assigning calls.

"K" and "W" predominate as first letters because the United States was assigned these and "N" by the International Bureau of the Telegraphic Union at Berne, Switzerland, in accordance with the 1912 agreement.

VANCOUVER MINING MARKET

Vancouver, July 30.—Except in Woodbine, which made a further advance of from one to two points to a high of 28½, a number of the stock market leaders were softer to-day with the volume of trading slightly reduced.

Interest in Woodbine was in evidence right from the opening when an off-session sale of 3,000 shares at 27½ were chalked up. This was the key to the initial sales which started at that quotation. Soon the price touched 28 on steady demand and jumped further to a maximum of 28½ when there was a slight slackening off to a close at 27½ with total sales for the day of 20,150.

Big Missouri was softer at the open, which was at 59½ down 3, but half-way through the session indications of strength again appeared and the last sales were at 60, on a turnover of 3,600 shares.

Cork Province was again a heavy trader at a uniform price of 36; 20,600 shares being taken up at that figure. Duthie dropped to a low of 95, off four from the previous close. George Copper ranged from $4.65 at the opening to a close at $4.60, with 225 shares changing hands.

Vancouver, July 30.—Z Canyon and Grandview consolidation has been approved by the board of directors.

Golconda mill will start grinding Tuesday or Wednesday and should be in full operation by the end of the week.

Vancouver, B.C., July 30 (By Miller, Court & Company).—The market opened light, with general weakness in prices.

Big Missouri opened down at 59½.

Kootenay Florence opened down four points from its previous close, a few shares turning over at 20½. Lucky Jim continued firm at 32.

Pend Oreille was down to $13.50 bid, $13.50 asked.

Big Missouri, Lucky Jim, Cork Province and Mohawk featured the morning session. Big Missouri climbed back to 60 before the close. Cork Province was weaker, with 20,000 shares turning over at 30. Lucky Jim continued steady with 10,000 shares changing hands at 32.

Mohawk was weaker, 10,000 shares turning over at prices ranging from 10 to 9. International Coal and Coke was up one point to 35.

Woodbine was fairly active, opening at 28½ on the Premier report, but breaking back to 27 under selling pressure.

The general tone of the market is active, with a trend toward lower prices.

TORONTO MINING MARKET

Toronto, July 30 (By R. F. Castle)—The Standard Stock and Mining Exchange had a slightly firmer tone, many of the issues scoring gains against the continuous decline of last week. Total trading was also slightly better.

Amulet opening at 412 sold up to 425, but later recated to around 415 and gained five points at 415-420.

Area was softer, losing 1½ points at 38½-39.

Abana was firm and heavily traded in from 340 to 350 closing unchanged from Friday.

Noranda suffered the worst loss of the day. After opening at 55.50 and selling up to 55.70, this issue lost ground to 53.75, closing for a net loss of 2.30 at 53.40-54.00.

Barry Hollinger presented the most action of any of the stocks opening at 46, but was heavily sold and lost ground to 37, later recovering to 41½, losing 4¾ points.

Central Manitoba was firmer, selling from 85 up to 92, closing for a gain of five points.

Jackson Manion was firmer and gained one at 89-90. Kirkland Lake was firmer at 155 and finished strong at 163, gaining eight points to close at the top.

Big Missouri was firmer and up one at 59 bid.

Teck Hughes was five points better at 940-945.

Mandy was also firmer and up five. Pend Orielle was off slightly, closing at 13.50-14.00.

B.C. TENNIS CONTESTS ON AT WILLOWS

Perfect tennis weather marked the start of the thirty-seventh annual tennis championships of British Columbia at the Willows this morning. Most of the visitors were on hand, getting tuned up for their matches later in the day.

Claude Turenne of Seattle was the first of the big guns to get into action. The former Canadian champion breezed through his match against George Phillips to the tune of 6-1, 6-1.

Eight men were seeded in the singles. "Peek" Griffin and Almquist are in the first quarter; Harrison and Howard Caughlin in the second; Turenne and Prusoff in the third; while the defending champion, Johnny Risso occupies the fourth bracket with Sherman Lockwood.

MAY DEFAULT

There is reported that "Peck" Griffin has been forced to default along with Joe Coughlin, the San Francisco southpaw. If he does not arrive this afternoon Turrenne will team with Toward Cauglin in the doubles.

Mrs. Golda Myer Gross defeated Miss Strauss, 6-2, 6-3.

Steve Jones and Peter Phillips and "Mac" McGoverin and Jimmy Kesson met in two all-local matches with the first-named winning in each case, but only after three hard sets.

H. A. Ismay bested Jack Matson, 6-3, 7-9, 10-8, in the marathon of the morning.

Driscoll and Gerald Cunningham will meet in the feature match of the day this afternoon.

RESULTS OF MATCHES

N.Y. Market Gossip

(By Quadra Investment Corporation)

New York, July 30—Business during the week ended July 21, as measured by the volume of checks passing through the banks for payment, was greater than a year ago, but somewhat smaller than in the preceding week, according to the weekly statement of the Department of Commerce.

From now on crop conditions are likely to figure more importantly as a factor in the speculative situation.

While the estimated production of Spring wheat is considerably less than that of last year the total for Winter wheat will not be much below average. The favorable outlook for the Canadian crop may tend to reduce the income from wheat. Though European shortages may act as a favoring offset later on in the crop year.

The total value of the corn crop is likely to prove somewhat larger than last year, because of the increased demand for feeding hogs, the excess supply of which is rapidly disappearing.

On the whole the agricultural situation at present must be regarded as favorable and conducive to a well-sustained volume of freight traffic during the Fall months.

Comparatively unfavorable earnings in common with higher money rates sufficiently account for the lack of speculative interest recently shown in the rails. As against an average price of 125.8 in May this year and 115.6 in June, 1927, the average for the rails up to this time of writing in July is about 118.9.

The market for the rails continues highly selective and they are being bought only on the basis of earnings and financial position.

With respect to adventitious influence, the rails as a whole appear to be freer than most issues which have figured most prominently in recent activity.

On any fair appraisal basis such stocks as Atchison, Union Pacific, Pennsylvania, New York Central, Illinois Central and Baltimore & Ohio are not overvalued at present prices and report sound investments.

General Motors—At the dividend meeting scheduled for August 9, the directors of this company are expected to declare a stock dividend probably of 25 per cent. So far this year the company's earnings have shown a large increase, and present indications are that results for the latter half will also compare favorably with those of the 1927 period. We expect "GM" will sell higher in anticipation of this development.

Marland Oil reported earnings of $1.66 per share for the six months ended June 30 vs. $3.01 per share reported for the corresponding period of 1927. These earnings are after all charges, except bookkeeping writeoffs for depreciation, depletion and intangible drilling costs. However, Marland should be one of the first companies to reflect improvement in the oil industry, and we advise the purchase of "MO" on all minor setbacks.

Postum reported earnings of $2.13 per share on the new stock for the six months ended June 30, against $2.29 per share last year, calculated on a similar basis. These earnings do not include those of the recently acquired Cheek-Neal Coffee Company, which reported a net profit of $1,800,727 for the eight months ended April 30. Postum gives every evidence of further rapid growth, and we would accumulate "PS" on all favorable opportunities for the long pull.

American Smelting is again coming into its own. Earnings for the second half is expected to show better than $10 per share. We think "AR" is one of the few stocks which has not been overbulled, and recommend its purchase for an advance into new high levels.

Air Reduction for the six months ended June 30, this company reported earnings of $2.37 per share on the 676,203 shares outstanding. This compares favorably with $2.17 per share reported for the corresponding period of 1927 on a smaller number of shares. It is probable that following the practice of former years an extra dividend will be paid later on in 1928.

The American says "That bankers identified with Studebaker are understood to have organized a new pool."

The World says "That buying of Fox Film and Fox Theatres has been persistent during the recent action and that it is stated the accumulation comes from quarters who know the details of important developments pending."

Journal of Commerce says "That announcement of advances in the oil group from a number of companies in the mid-continent field was followed by an advance of one cent in the retail gasoline price throughout New England."

Herald Tribune says "Weekly trade reviews were generally favorable and contributed to the buying sentiment yesterday."

The Times says "That although activity remained largely of a professional character, there were indications of a gradually increasing public participation in the market."

Lacoste Defeats Hennessey After Four-set Match

Auteuil, France, July 30.—Rene Lacoste defeated John Hennessey in the fifth and last match of the challenge round series by scores of 4-6, 6-1, 7-5, 6-3, thus making the final scores of the series four matches for France to one for the United States.

Roumania Sends N. Titulescu To Great Britain

Bucharest, Roumania, July 30.—Nicholas Titulescu, Foreign Minister of Roumania, is to become Ambassador to Great Britain as soon as he regains his health.

This was learned to-day through an official announcement confirming newspaper reports published yesterday of his resignation from his Cabinet post.

The announcement said Mr. Titulescu had gone to Abbaara, Austria, to take the waters there. He has been in ill-health for some time.

The Foreign Ministry will be temporarily in the hands of C. A. Argetoianu, Minister of Agriculture.

CADET CUP IS WON VANCOUVER SCHOOL

King Edward High School Takes Honors in Annual Cadet Inspection

The I.O.D.E. Cup, emblematic of the highest degree of efficiency in military and physical drills among the cadet corps of the Province was won by the King Edward High School, Vancouver, which obtained 835 out of a possible 1,000 in the annual inspection this year.

The trophy has been up for competition for many years and was awarded to the University School at the 1927 inspection. This year competition was exceptionally keen and the previous holders of the cup were only able to take third place. The Boys' Central School of Victoria was second in the event with a total of 830 points.

The I.O.D.E. Cup awarded to the Indian school obtaining the highest points in this work was won by the Alert Bay Cadet Corps for the second time in succession. Coqualeetza Institute, Sardis, and St. George's School, Lytton, B.C., came second and third respectively.

The report issued by the Cadet Inspection Committee, Military District No. 11, graded the schools as follows:

King Edward High School, Vancouver, 835; Boys' Central School, Victoria, 830; University School, Victoria, 815; Technical High School, Vancouver, two companies, 810; Kitsilano High School, Vancouver, four companies, 800; T. ANCIENT CITY'S GLORIES FADE

Once the Seats of the Mighty Were in Peking; Now in Nanking

Peking, ancient capital, is the chief city of China no more. For centuries the seat of government in China, Peking has now been relegated to a comparatively inconspicuous position, according to Ernest K. Moy, United States director of the Kuo Min News Agency, official organ of the Chinese Nationalist Government. So far as that government is concerned, says Mr. Moy, Peking is the capital no longer.

The new capital of China is Nanking. There the Nationalist Government has made its headquarters, and there the great tomb of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, "Father of the Republic," looks down over the men who mold the destiny of China. Peking, according to the edict of the Nationalist Government, is now Peiping.

"WE WILL BUILD"

"We are on the threshold, so to speak," said Mr. Moy, "and we are young as a republic. We will build a new capital city. We will build a new nation."

Nanking is about 100 miles up the Yangtse River from Shanghai. A city commission has been appointed there to arrange for the planning of a model capital, the tearing down of the old and the erection of a modern city. Mr. Moy saw this work in its initial stages when he was there several weeks ago. He also looked upon the mausoleum of Dr. Sun Yat Sen.

IN HIS MEMORY

"It is imposing," said Mr. Moy. He was speaking of the tomb of the "Father of the Republic." "It stands upon the summit of a hill above the city of Nanking. Three hundred stone steps lead up to it, and from the foot of the hill they seem to reach almost to the sky. The mausoleum itself, costly, dignified, a creditable testimony to the greatness of the man whom Chinese people hold a hero, shines in a glory of white marble and oddly-cut stone."

The mausoleum stands for something more than the figure of the founder of the republic, Mr. Moy explains. While it is a tomb of the dead, it is a sign of the birth, the awakening, of a nation. That is its double significance, he asserts.

"The curtain," said Mr. Moy, "has rung down upon the drama of 'Old Chin.' The audience hears another overture. It is awake to new possibilities, is tense with new hope and new enterprise. It has an inspiration.

"Peking, which meant 'Northern Capital' has been changed to Peiping, which means 'Northern Peace.' And, as the nation enters upon a new era, so Peking, now Peiping, fades into the background of the past, into the remoteness of things which have waned from power and glory. Only Peking will not be forgotten."

YOUNG COLONISTS COME TO CANADA

One Hundred British Youths to Take Up Farming on the Prairies

Toronto, Ont., July 30.—Early this week a party of 100 British boys and young men between the ages of seventeen and twenty-five years, who have just graduated from the training farms of Brandon and Claydon in the Old Country operated under the Ministry of Labor, will arrive in Canada. The newcomers are coming to the Dominion under the Department of Colonization and Development of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and final arrangements have been made by this department to place them on Canadian farms.

In the placing of the graduates the Land Settlement Board of the Dominion Government will co-operate with the Canadian Pacific Railway, they will be divided into groups and distributed from Edmonton, Calgary, Saskatoon, Regina and Prince Albert. Two of the party, Messrs. Blair and Lacock, who obtained the high marks for efficiency and general conduct, and were the recipients of the year's money award offered by President E. W. Beatty, will, in addition, be given a years' employment at the Canadian Pacific supply farm at Strathmore, Alta.

From the moment of arrival until they reach their respective farms they will be looked after by the railway. This is the third year that young Britishers have come to Canada under this scheme, and the results have been most satisfactory.

Britain Welcomes Parties From U.S.

Cardiff, Wales, July 30.—Ten thousand persons in a fleet of pleasure boats sailed from Bristol Channel yesterday to meet the liner George Washington, bearing the United Moose Party and the Welsh-American Choir for the Welsh Eistaddfod. They escorted the liner into Cardiff, while thousands watched the arrival from cliffs.

MARKET STUDY IN BRITAIN

London, July 30.—A census taken of 1,000 retail grocers in Great Britain at the instance of the House of Commons select committee on estimates, shows the more wealthy customers have considerably increased their purchases of Empire goods, the committee's report says. The Empire Marketing Board's publicity campaign, however, is declared to have made little progress so far among the poorer classes. The committee advocates advertising of products by traveling exhibits in road caravans and moving picture propaganda, instead of poster advertising. The committee considers the salaries of the Empire Marketing Board staff, amounting to eight per cent of the total expenditures, are excessive.

London, July 30—Flying Officer P. Murdock of the South African Air Force left Croydon air field yesterday in a 30-horse power light plane in an attempt to fly to Capetown and back, 16,000 miles, in eighteen days. Murdock said the object of the flight was to show that it was possible to fly through the Sudan during the rainy season and thus prove the practicability of regular all-year air service. The feat has never been accomplished.

NEW MIGRATION PLANS URGED

Montreal, July 30—"Canada would attract double the number of British settlers if she applied her immigration laws and jettisoned some department regulations," said Robert Culver, secretary of the British Dominions' Emigration Society, who arrived here Saturday. He declared that when young immigrants came face to face with regulations they wondered if Canada really wanted them.

Lady O'Donoghue Dies in Toronto

Toronto, July 30. — Lady Agnes O'Donoghue, wife of Sir James O'Donoghue, died here to-day after a few weeks' illness.

Lady O'Donoghue was the daughter of William Barrett, merchant, Ballycastle, Ireland. In 1923 sht was married to Sir James and in 1925, when they paid a visit to Toronto, they decided to live here.

During the World War Lady O'Donoghue served as an artist in the drafting department of the Royal Engineers.

IMMIGRATION

CANADA needs MEN—men to plow her lands, to turn her mineral and forest wealth to commercial value—to serve her industries.

Her total population represents but three persons per square mile of her area. Compare this with England's population of 701 per square mile, or Belgium's 665, or Germany's 346, or Japan's 320, or France's 192.

And then compare the position that Canada holds in competition with these nations.

She leads the world in wheat exports; per capita she is second among world traders in foreign markets; she is the world's greatest newsprint producer, and its third greatest gold producer. The world is largely dependent on her for nickel, asbestos and cobalt. With practically one-twelfth of the population of the United States, she does roughly one-fourth the foreign trade of that country.

What would be Canada's position had she her fair share of man power?

The problem of immigration is one that should occupy the attention of every thinking Canadian. It is not a problem only for statesmen—it is a problem for everyone.

NEA SERVICE

By Hugh Pendexter

AUTHOR OF KINGS OF THE MISSOURI, BAY GRAVEL, A VIRGINIA SCOUT, ETC

COPYRIGHT BY HUGH PENDEXTER-1923-1925.

Up came her head, her gaze haughtily returning mine. In a low even voice she coldly informed me:

"When I found my faith at the brook, I also found some of my pride. Monsieur has made a great mistake."

"I am afraid I have," I muttered, dazed at the unexpected outcome of what cool reason would tell me was an unwise honor.

But what the devil had pride to do with it? In a rush of memory I saw her standing wan and friendless on the sands of Ship Island. I remembered her misrepresentation of how she came to sail for Louisiana. I recalled my conviction that soft hands and poverty were a poor dower for a girl to bring to one not assured as to her history. And I had actually offered her marriage under the spell of the morning and because of a vagrant impulse to complete her belief in her medicine—her faith.

She was coolly saying:

"Monsieur forgot himself. I also will forget. He meant to be kind; so his fault is amiable. I will see that monsieur is well paid for his time and worry and the dangers he encounters. He shall be paid in gold. I am without money just now. I may choose to demean myself by labor. But—but I always pay my debts."

I knew two things as she uttered this preposterous talk — she was adorable regardless of her past history; and she deserved to be slapped. I rose and bowed, and said:

"It is all forgotten. If in anything I have said or done I have impressed you as one who would help a helpless woman for so many pieces of gold or silver then you shall pay me. If you decided to the contrary you will never mention the pay again. I only ask that during the rest of the trip neither of us be foolish enough to remember this talk to be embarrassed by it."

She frowned, as if puzzled by my words, then gave a little shrug to show she dismissed the whole matter. But in the back of my mind was the amazing fact that I had offered to marry her, to extricate her from a hundred and one humiliations, let alone dangers, and had been coldly refused because of "pride."

Labrador returned and reported:

"If Damoan visited the Tunica village he has not left it. No Choctaws have traveled inland from the river."

Old Six Fingers came cursing his way through the bushes, and snarled at me:

"No gold, no diamonds, and no d—n gourd. So you will get no water."

"Then we will move on and find the Huma village. I will scout ahead and see if they will lift the peace calumet. Labrador, hold back with mademoiselle until you get my signal to come on."

"A moment, Monsieur Brampton," she sharply demanded. "We will go together, or not at all. One brave gentleman has lost his life to serve me. Now we will all share alike."

She was as regal as a marquise in hauteur, and the tilt of the small head was suggestive of one used to authority.

"It must be as you say," I told her. "But there will be no danger. Fear nothing because of me."

Instantly her mood changed, and she was clinging to my arm, and tearfully pleading:

"Let me go with you, monsieur. I beg of you to let me go with you."

I glanced sidewise at the lowering Six Fingers and murmured:

"He can harm you none. He is dependent on me for his very life. Besides you will have my friend."

"And you thought I was thinking of myself!" she sadly remarked, turning away.

With an order to Labrador — in Choctaw — to hold her back if I received a hostile welcome, I hurried up the path to the Huma village. Half an hour was sufficient to bring me to the ten-foot stockade surrounding the village. There was loud singing inside the stockade and I remained at the edge of the forest, wondering what could occasion it so early in the morning; for singing meant some ceremony.

Evidently something of importance had happened, or was about to happen, and I would have preferred seeking sanctuary there when the savages were not overrun by their emotions. But to be found lurking outside of the village would place us at a great disadvantage and, if such be the Humas's whim, classify us as captives. Nor could we retreat to the river where Damoan and his Shoctaws would have but little trouble in gobbling us up. So, assuming my best air, I advanced and came face to face with a warrior just inside the gate.

We stared at each other a moment, then his face cracked in a smile and he extended a hand, and said:

"My white brother is welcome. The White Indian has a red heart when he is with the Humas."

I had been among Indians enough to distinguish them as individuals, just as I would white men, and as I held his hand I remembered him and replied:

"The White Indian comes to renew his red heart with Little Turkey and his people and to smoke the calumet with Strong Bow."

Strong Bow was head chief of the Humas and a very old man. I had smoked with him the year before and I was anxious to find him.

To my relief Little Turkey said:

"Strong Bow is now in his cabin after seeing the dance. He has smoked the calumet once this morning, but he is never too weary to lift the pipe to the White Indian."

He turned and walked away and I followed him.

We had an open path to the chief's cabin, which was built of posts, plastered with clay. Split canes formed the roof. Outside the opening was a raised platform on which were piled bearskins and hides. Through the entrance I saw Strong Bow reclined on a couch of skins and cane mats.

A young warrior, a grandson of the chief I later learned, stood at the foot of the couch, his girdle of colored feathers hanging down like a tail. This young man, on beholding me, backed from the couch and, in what was a most indecorous deportment for an Indian, turned and bolted through the door. Little Turkey glared after him reproachfully.

Strong Bow did not seem to notice his grandson's ill manners. He sat up. I squatted on the floor, and the two of us stared at the beaten earth for nearly a minute.

Then the chief said: "The White Indian does not forget the red (Huma) Choctaws. He brings presents to them and he is always welcome."

"On my last visit I brought presents and took nothing but your friendship. That was enough. To-day I bring Strong Bow a present and promise more when I come again."

Anxious to receive his gift he mentioned for Little Turkey to bring the peace calumet from its peg on a post. Little Turkey brought it and filled it and gave it to the chief and then brought a coal from the fire in a split stick. Strong Bow did me the great courtesy of passing the pipe to me and lighting it for me.

"I smoke for three friends, all white like myself," I stipulated, before taking the first puff. "I was so hungry to meet my red friends I drew ahead of them. They will be along soon." And I waited for him to include my friends in the smoke before putting the stem to my lips.

"The pipe is lifted to the White Indian and his three friends," he gravely agreed.

Then I smoked to the sun and the four winds and the earth and passed the pipe to him, and, not to be outdone in courtesy, held it while he repeated the sacred obligation.

After the pipe had been hung on the post the chief said: "It is the second peace [illegible] since the sun began shining."

Little Turkey had said the same and a faint apprehension of danger disturbed me. I was keen to inquire who his first visitor was, but this would be a grave social blunder. So I produced one of my pistols and placed it on his couch. With a grunt of delight he seized upon the weapon, which was of large bore and generously decorated with silver. Little Turkey touched my arm to intimate the audience was ended. I followed him into the sunshine, and he said:

"My white brother's friends should come now. The smoke of a peace pipe covers those who can see, or smell it."

"They will be here soon," I assured him. "The smoke covers them. It was agreed that I smoked for the three of them."

He remained silent for half a minute staring toward the entrance in the stockade. "They smoked when you smoked," he finally remarked. "But old men sometimes forget. It is easier for them to forget if an evil bird whispers in their ear."

He had given me a friendly warning. To ask him to interpret and go into details would have been useless. I knew he was my friend just as I knew the young warrior seen in the chief's cabin would be my enemy. I observed the slight straightening of his figure and a flash of his eyes in a sidelong glance. I looked to one side and behold Damoan the Fox and a group of warriors approaching us. The chief's grandson had informed my enemy of my presence, for he stood at Damoan's right hand and was pointing at me.

Among the Humas were several of Damoan's Choctaws; and with his hand on a pistol thrust through his sash the Fox gave a sharp order. The Biloxi Choctaws darted forward, but Little Turkey already sensing the hostility between the Frenchman and me, leaped before the Choctaws and flung up his right hand, and cried: "They have smoked!"

The Choctaws fell back. Damoan cursed in French and ordered them to seize me. But even his new ally, the chief's grandson, dared not see the peace of the pipe violated. I heard him remind the Fox that the stem of the peace calumet did not extend beyond the stockade; in plain English, once outside the palings we could fight to our heart's desire and the savages would enjoy watching the spectacle. But the village inside the stockade, like the Cherokee "white" towns, was sanctuary, and those who had been received in peace could not be disturbed.

With the first flush of anger succeeded by the cold reason Damoan knew the uselessness of opposing this ancient custom of the Humas. With his thumbs hooked in his red sash he swaggered up to me, and quietly greeted:

"So, English spy, I've caught you at last."

"French spy, you mean you have caught up with me," I corrected. "And where are the rest of your red friends—aside from those feeding the catfish in the river?"

He showed his teeth in a thin-lipped grin and informed me:

"Outside, hunting for your friends. No pipes have been smoked out there. I told them not to hurt the woman. I think I shall keep her."

He desired to enrage me into an imprudence, so he might shoot me in the plea of self-defence. I did not rise to the bait. He went on:

"I came here to smoke the calumet and get some red trackers. I never dreamed of this good luck. My manito is very strong. I knew you had landed, for there were scraps of meat and bones on a rock in the river, where your lookout had eaten."

I mentally cursed old Six Fingers for leaving the signs, although I was the more to blame for not looking after him.

"Eh bien, canaille," I said, "when we meet again there will be no calumet stem between us."

"Nothing but red wampum. But wait. Tiens! You would miss the best of it. You will find it droll."

And from the medicine-bag at his girdle he took out a green scalp and shook out the long, blond hair. Switching it close to my face he said: "A souvenir of the crazy Frenchman!"

My heart thumped tumultuously; but my face was frozen in its calm expression.

"Because you took his hair I will lift your scalp some day, Damoan. My manito tells me you will be bald-headed before the Moon of Turkeys (October)."

He laughed, but now his hate showed through his mirth.

"Fool! Bald-headed yourself! I will keep the woman till she tires me, and I will decorate her leggings with the hair of the mad Frenchman and with that of the White Indian—one scalp for each legging."

At this grossness my gorge boiled over, and despite the calumet I would have attacked him had I not been confounded by a fresh situation, nothing less than the appearance of Mademoiselle Dahlsgaarde running into the village closely followed by Labrador and Six Fingers. Naturally believing that Domoan's Choctaws had flushed them from their hiding-place and were hot on their trail and that at any moment they would be pouring into the stockade, eager to kill because of their ignorance of the peace smoke, I ran to meet the girl.

Damoan must have also started forward, for I heard Little Turkey's raucous voice proclaiming:

"They are in the peace smoke. Let no one forget the shadow of the peace calumet."

I glanced back and observed the Humas had glided in between Damoan and his Choctaws and me. The next moment the girl had both my hands and was crying:

"Oh, monsieur! I felt you were in danger. They tried to stop me. When they were not looking I ran up the path. Thank he good God you still live!"

"As mademoiselle is to see much of me, Monsieur Brampton, suppose you present me to her," suavely suggested Damoan at my elbow.

The girl stared at him wonderingly, then began to shrink behind me to escape his evil gaze. She was guessing some of the truth of the climax; and as it was best that she should understand all I bowed to her, and said:

"Mademoiselle Dahlsgaarde, this is the devil!"

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily's Red Candy

Copyright, 1928, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate

By HOWARD R. GARIS

"Uncle Wiggily! Oh, Uncle Wiggily!" called Baby Bunty one day as the rabbit gentleman was hopping along on his pink twinkling nose. Oh excuse me, if you please! That's wrong. Mr. Longears was hopping along the ground, but his pink, twinkling nose was with him, of course.

"What is it, Bunty?" asked Uncle Wiggily, as he saw the little orphan rabbit hopping after him.

"I think you had beter take me with you when you go adventuring to-day," said Bunty, being careful to speak no "baby talk," as Uncle Wiggily called it, for he did not like that.

"Why should I take you, Bunty?" asked Mr. Longears, just to tease her for he intended all the while to let her come with him.

"Oh, if you take me I can tell you a good way to drive away the Fox or the Wolf if they should try to nibble you," said Bunty.

"So you know a good way to scare the bad chaps, do you?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "I suppose you mean that I should give them a puzzle to do. But you would be wrong, for I am not going to make any more puzzles. I have given them up. I made enough of them."

"No, I wasn't thinking of puzzles," Bunty said. "But if you would go to the store, and buy ten cents' worth of candy, then, when the Fox or Wolf came along you would give them something sweet and they wouldn't nibble you! How's that?"

"That's fine!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily, with a laugh. "A very good idea, Bunty. We'll do it. Here is ten cents—you go buy the candy."

Bunty was hoping Uncle Wiggily would say that.

So off she hopped to the candy store, with Uncle Wiggily hopping along behind her and, all of a sudden, Mr. Longears called:

"Oh, Bunty!"

"Yes, what is it?" she asked, turning around. "Oh, I hope he isn't going to take back this candy ten cents," thought the little orphan rabbit.

But Uncle Wiggily wouldn't do such a thing ast that. He just said:

"Get some candy for yourself as well as to drive away the bad chaps, Bunty!"

"I will!" laughed the little girl bunny and she did, coming back to Mr. Longears her paws were filled with sweets. Among them were gum drops, chocolate drops, cocoanut candy and peppermints. So with the candy, some of which was in Uncle Wiggily's pocket, some of which was in Bunty's paws and some of which was in the little orphan's mouth, the two hopped along again.

Pretty soon, all of a sudden, out of the bushes popped the Bob Cat.

"I want ears!" howled the Bob Cat.

"Have a piece of candy instead!" said Uncle Wiggily and he held out a red stick, at the sight of which the Bob Cat howled:

"Oh, not this! Not that! No, indeed! Not that!" and away he ran.

"I wonder why he didn't like my candy?" said Uncle Wiggily, but he had no time to say more for, all of a oneness out from behind another bush popped the Fox.

"I want ears!" howled the Fox.

"Have some candy!" cried the bunny uncle. But when he held out the same red stick the Fox howled:

"Oh, not that! Not that! Anything but that!" away he ran.

"My! Your trick is working very well, Bunny," said Uncle Wiggily, "but why are they all so afraid of this red candy?"

"Let me see it," said Bunty. And when she looked at it she laughed and cried: "Ha! Ha! Why, that isn't red candy at all! It was a red fire cracker you must have had in your pocket since the Fourth of July. No wonder the bad chaps were afraid to take it! Ha Ha!"

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "Well, I'm glad they were. Anyhow the bad chaps ran away and now we can eat our candy in peace," which he and Bunty did. And if the pillow doesn't tie itself up in the bedspread and make me believe it's a baby elephant, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the egg beater.

NEW BRUNSWICK LOBSTER

Grand Manan, N.B., July 30—A lobster weighing eighteen pounds was caught in Campobello waters recently by William Matthews of Wilson's Beach, and shipped to Grand Manan, where it was cured and made into a museum specimen. The crustacean was thirty-eight inches long, the large claw being 11½ inches in length, six inches in width and holding two fluid quarts. These large lobsters have no commercial value beyond that of a curiosity or museum specimen.

Two other lobsters, larger than this, were caught in the same locality some time ago. Taken within five years of each other, both were practically identical. They were forty-two inches long and weighed twenty-three pounds. One of them is in the British Museum and the other was purchased by William K. Vanderbilt.

DREAMS TOO VIGOROUSLY

Los Angeles, July 30.—A battle in bed with a nightmare bully put Michael Norso, forty-fife, shoemaker, in the hospital here and wounds inflicted upon himself with a cobbler's mallet were causing him much pain to-day. Norso is in the habit of sleeping with a shoemaker's hammer near at hand for protection, and in the throes of a nightmare early yesterday he seized the heavy instrument and severely beat himself. It took Police Surgeon Kirkpatrick thirty minutes to sew up and bandage the cuts and bruises.

BLUEBERRY INDUSTRY

Halifax, N.S., July 30.—Following the passage at the last session of the Nova Scotia Legislature of an Act encouraging the cultivation of blueberries, an organized effort has been placed behind the blueberry industry in this Province. Blueberry associations are being formed throughout Nova Scotia, and the Provincial Government is co-operating with these associations in selecting areas best suited for the growth of the berries. These areas will be burned over under Government supervision and the cultivation will be favored with the best scientific knowledge and technical direction.

One day when unexpected company came to dinner, little Betty was told privately that she and mother would have to have oyster soup without the oysters. The child was flattered at her share in this sacrifice to hospitality, and apparently disappointed when she found one small oyster in her portion. Holding it up on the spoon, she inquired in a stage whisper:

"Mother, shouldn't Mrs. Smith have this oyster, too?"

Physician Gives Holiday Advice

Providence, R.I. (By Mail)—"Do what you want to do and don't allow yourself to receive dictation from public health officials," is the advice on how to benefit most from a vacation, by Dr. Charles V. Chapin, State Superintendent of Health and former president of the American Medical Society.

"Above all," he says, "do something you haven't been doing. If you are a postman, policeman or one of the walking class of workers, seek out a nice piazza and sit down for a change. The gay set should refrain from dancing and smart resorts. If you are old, go for automobile rides, but don't fall for the idea of making such-and-such a place before nightfall. If you are young, go in for vigorous sports, but not too vigorous.

"Get sunburned, but be gradual about it. Don't try to acquire the complexion of a broiled lobster in one treatment.

"High tension mental giants need brain relaxation, and persons so gifted can prove it by providing their own solutions."

Book of Knowledge

Sketches by Bessey. Synopsis by Brauchee.

CATTLE IN EUROPE

Our ancestors in Europe had not far to go in quest of cattle. The towering Aurochs roamed the grassy plains and browsed in the thick forests. With the Aurochs all domestic herds began. This sketch is from a painting by Sir Edwin Landseer, the celebrated painter of animals, showing the wild cattle of England, some of which still exist.

By NEA, Through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge. Copyright, 1923-26.

Cattle lived before man, according to bones found in the soil. Their first masters in Britain must have been the little men with flint tools.

The Romans brought to Britain their own breeds, descended from the same source as the Celtic herds they found in that country.

When our forefathers crossed the Atlantic they brought cattle with them. Much of the work was done by oxen. Oxen were preferred to horses in tilling the land because they were less expensive to keep. It cost only a few cents for a man and his oxen to plow an acre of land. (To Be Continued).

To-morrow's Horoscope

TUESDAY, JULY 31, 1928

This is a day in which the planetary government is stimulating and helpful, according to astrology. Benefic aspects dominate.

Whatever is constructive and productive should benefit by this sway, which makes for ambitious enterprises.

Great engineering and building projects are foreseen, and there will be developed marvelously the new architecture which distinguishes America.

Bridges as well as buildings of tremendous size will be built and great stretches of water will be spanned, astrologers foretell.

Under this sway health is to become a national concern and public organizations to protect the nation will expand, it is predicted.

All the seers agree that there is to be a type of beauty developed in North America which will surpass all that has been worshipped in the past.

Spiritual as well as physical development is to be sought, and super-men and super-women produced, if the stars are rightly read.

Children born on this day probably will be daring and self-reliant. The subjects of this sign usually made a success.

Again a substitute for gasoline is foretold and it will serve as a practical fuel, it is predicted.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of journeys and letters of importance in the coming year.

FLOWER SHOW AT BAMBERTON

Keen Competition is Feature of Many Classes

Brentwood, July 28.—The fourth annual flower show was held on Wednesday in the Recreation Hall at Bamberton. The opening ceremony was performed by Judge P. S. Lampson, Professor Straight of Dominion Experimental Farm, Sidney, and Mrs. J. D. Gordon of the Department of Agriculture were the judges. Keen competition was shown by the exhibitors and the large number of entries.

Afternoon tea and ice cream were served on the wide veranda commanding a beautiful view of Saanich Arm and the surrounding district, and an orchestra provided music during the afternoon.

A tennis match between Cedar Hill and Bamberton was eagerly contested, Cedar Hill being victorious by a score of 49 to 39 games. At the conclusion of the afternoon programme the prizes were presented and the perishable exhibits were sold by auction.

The affair was continued in the evening with a dance from 8.30 to 12.30 for which Hunt's orchestra supplied the music, and a most enjoyable and successful day was brought to a close.

List of prize winners:

Division A, flowers—1, V. Zellinsky; 2, R. Baker.

Division B, vegetables—1, E. Bull; 2, R. Baker.

Division C, school children—1, John Barlow; 2, A. Fish.

Division D, domestic science—Mrs. Barlow and Mrs. Baker, tied.

Division E, best garden—1, R. Barlow; 2, V. Zellinsky; 3, E. Lusse; 4, R. Baker.

Highest aggregate in division A and B; (prizes donated by Henry Anderson)—1, E. Bull; 2, R. Baker.

Special competition, most artistically arranged table; (prize donated by Mrs. R. P. Butchart)—1, Mrs. T. Moffitt; 2, Mrs. D. M. Williams.

Special prizes, bunkhouse gardens; (Prizes donated by R. P. Butchart)—M. Powell and E. Middleton.

CANTON SCENE OF EXECUTIONS

Seventeen Put to Death; 140 Arrested as Communist Plotters

Canton, China, July 30—Government authorities yesterday announced the discovery of a new and extensive Communist plot for an uprising. One hundred and forty Communists, including nine girls, were arrested here and seventeen persons were executed, while thousands of incendiary pamphlets were confiscated.

The announcement, coming after weeks of tranquility during which the Kwangsi province group, controlling the Canton Government, had succeeded in establishing order, dismayed the business community, which fears renewed riots similar to those of December, 1927, and the early part of 1928. Government troops throughout Kwangtung Province are said to be in a sullen mood. Their ranks contain thousands of Communists who might be involved in an uprising.

ISLAND ENTRIES LEAD IN CONTEST

Local Birds Hold First, Third and Fourth Places in Egg-laying Contest

With the expiry of thirty-seven weeks in the national egg-laying contest at Ottawa Vancouver Island hens from pen No. 50, owned by T. H. Hayward of the Alandale Poultry Farm, were thirty-eight and two-fifths points ahead of its nearest rival.

There are about 1,000 birds from Canada and other countries entered in the contest and three entries from the Island hold first, third and fourth places respectively.

The leading pen belonging to Mr. Hayward has a record of 1,716 eggs, giving it 1,727.3 points, while the total eggs for the week were fifty-six. All the birds in this pen are from registered contest winners at Sidney, five of them being from the well-known hen No. 9.

W. Bradley's pen has so far produced 1,716 eggs, which gives it a point standing of 1,662.3, with the week's laying resulting in fifty-three eggs.

The pen belong to J. Burgess of Qualicum Beach has a total of 1,639 eggs so far in the contest, with eighteen eggs for the last week and has 1,582.1 points to its credit.

TO ATTEND FUEL CONFERENCE

Ottawa, July 30—Edgar Stansfield of Alberta, a research engineer who has worked with the Scientific and Industrial Research council of Canada and B. J. Haanel, chief engineer of the division of fuels and fuel testing of the Department of Mines, Ottawa, will represent Canada at the International Fuel Conference to be held in London, England, September 24 to October 6. The conference is to be held under the auspices of the world power conference at the Imperial Institute. Twenty-two countries will be represented.

Italia Survivors Visit Denmark

Copenhagen, Denmark, July 30—General Umberto Nobile, leader of the Italia expedition, who arrived here Saturday night on his way from Narvik, Norway, to Rome, remained in the Italian Legation all yesterday, except for a short automobile drive with the Italian Minister.

The other rescued members of the lost dirigible expedition, however, made a holiday tour of the city, spending several hours in the famous Tivoli Gardens.

There was no demonstration of any kind, and the police guard outside the Italian Legation yawned with inactivity. General Nobile shook hands with the sergeant in charge and regretted his presence had spoiled the guard's holiday.

TRIAL OF TORAL IN MEXICO SOON

Mexico City, July 30—Jose De Leon Toral, who murdered President-elect Alvaro Obregon, will be turned over for trial to the district court at San Angel, where the crime was committed.

This was announced by Chief of Police Antenie Rio Zertuche of Mexico City, who said that the the same time he would make an official statement giving the results of the official investigation of the assassination.

It is not known yet where the slayer will be tried, as it is possible the case may be transferred from the San Angel court to a court in Mexico City.

BATTLE REPORTED

A delayed message to the War Department of Mexico yesterday said fifteen rebels were killed and a number captured in a clash with federal troops in the State of San Luis Patosi last week. The federal losses were two killed. The rebels were routed after an eight-hour battle near the town of Rio Verd.

EASTER DATE DISCUSSION

London, July 30. — The measure stabilizing Easter in Great Britain and Northern Ireland, given third reading in the House last Friday, will not be effective until an international agreement has been reached, it is stated. The bill provides for observance of Easter on the Sunday after the second Saturday in April, instead of determining the date by the phases of the moon.

HEAT HURTS FRUIT CROP

Loganberries in Saanich Adversely Affected, Official Report Says

The recent heat wave here adversely affected the small fruit crop of the Saanich Peninsula, according to the last crop report issued by the Provincial Department of Agriculture. Dated July 28, the report describes conditions on Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands as follows:

"The weather for the past few days has been exceedingly warm, the maximum temperature for the year 82 deg. being reached on Monday, July 23.

"The loganberry crop, which was showing signs of not reaching expectations, will be further adversely affected by the heat wave of the last few days. Picking is still in progress, and will continue for some days. The bulk of the crop is going to the wine factories. The raspberry crop is fast drawing to a close. Blackberries are just commencing to come on the market in some quantities.

"Sweet cherries are all over for the year. Picking of the sour cherry crop, principally the Olivet and Morello varieties has begun. The crop is only fair. No carload shipments will be made to prairie points this year, as the entire crop will be utilized by manufacturing firms.

"Early apples are on the market and late varieties are sizing well. Early pears are developing satisfactorily and the warm weather will hasten their maturity.

"Cleaning up of the strawberry plantations is in progress throughout the district. In most cases the tops have been cut down, the straw raked up and hauled off and cultivation started again, in anticipation of better prospects for 1929. In some cases the burning system has been adopted in the cleaning up programme. Some older patches have been taken out entirely."

Langford, July 30—The third junior road race was held on Friday evening, three miles being run by: 1, Clifford Vickery (in 18 minutes); 2, Gong Quan; 3, Neil Clarke; 4, David Scafe; 5, Keith Brown; 6, Campbell Brown.

Seven boys under twelve years of age competed in the one mile sprint, but two boys fell out when they tripped over stones. The order was as follows: 1, Dean Johnston (in 7 minutes); 2, Oswald Hincks; 3, Tom Dixon; 4, Stanley Jackson; 5, Rex Jackson.

Garvin States Views on Empire Migration Plans

London, July 30—In an editorial in The London Sunday Observer, J. L. Garvin, writing on Empire migration, said the fact must be faced that the outcome of all the bright hopes for a working out of the problem resembled something like a fiasco.

"The Dominions have been too restrictive," he wrote. "They have expected to receive the best of our human exports at the lowest cost.

"The Dominions in the end will realize the birthrate is diminishing all over Western and Central Europe. The abundant vitalities on this side of the Atlantic that created the United States, on the other hand, will never be available in anything like the same measure for the British Dominions. The Dominions in the end will have to be glad and eager to receive the average of human kind as the United States did."

Greatest advance in motoring comfort since balloon tires . . .

STUDEBAKER'S Ball Bearing Spring "Shackles"

In these new cars a patented invention at last solves a problem that has long baffled automotive engineers.

Every motorist knows the importance of spring shackles—those joints or hinges which form the connecting link between body and axles. Engineers have sought to reduce friction to a minimum at these vital joints—to make them flexible yet firm and uniform in action—to make them noiseless—to reduce the necessity for frequent lubrication. All these objectives have now been attained in Studebaker cars.

So revolutionary is this sensational innovation that the word "shackles," with its implication of restricted movement, is no longer applicable. The incessant action and reaction between body and axles is now carried by 172 steel balls rolling in lubricant—no binding, no squeaks, no rattles, no sidesway. Instead, smooth, silent resiliency, an undeviating uniformity of action and an enduring buoyancy that will keep your Studebaker young.

In place of complicated centralized systems for oiling and greasing, each ball bearing spring "shackle" contains, sealed within it, ample lubricant to last for more than twenty thousand miles.

At last . . . ball bearing spring shackles . . . the secret of the remarkable riding comfort of the new Studebakers.

Come ride in a new Studebaker today. Thrill to its champion performance. See rare new beauty of line and color. Then compare Studebaker's new low One-Profit prices—the triumph of 76 years' manufacturing experience!
